TURKS BURN FIFTY TOWNS

Butchery and Pillage Is Unceasing in Macedonian Villages.

MEN ARE CREMATED

Sixty Peasants Tortured and Killed and Corpses Left in Streets.

ITALIAN CONSUL FIRED UPON

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Sofia, Bulgaria, Sept. 6.—The Autonomye publishes the names of 50 villages burned by the Turks in the following districts: Resen, 30 villages; Kostur, 14; Krushevo, 6, and 1 monastery. The Turks burned four villages in the district of Strushkopolis, and murdered the priest. The population fled to the mountains. The Turks have destroyed all the flour mills in the district of Resen, and also every church. A fight is reported to have taken place at the village of Vetrsko, in the district of Kumanovo, between a body of insurgents and a Turkish battalion. It lasted four hours and the Turks lost heavily.

Reports have reached the revolutionary headquarters here of atrocities by the Turks in the village of Velkosti, in the district of Debre. The troops and Bashi-Bazouks are said to have surrounded the village and part of them entered and began plundering the houses and assaulting the women. The other soldiers remained outside and killed those inhabitants who tried to escape. The Turks then set fire to the village in four places, burning 12 men and children. One child was hanged. Altogether 60 peasants were killed and their bodies were left in the streets.

Bulgaria to Remain Neutral.

According to reliable reports from Varna at the recent council of ministers presided over by Prince Ferdinand at the palace of Euxinograd, it was resolved that Bulgaria should continue to maintain an attitude of the strictest neutrality in the Macedonian question and further

TEN THOUSAND AT CEREMONY

New St. Paul's Cathedral Corner Stone Laid With Great Pomp.

ARRAY OF PRIESTS

Coadjutor-Bishop J. F. Regis Canevin Presided Over the Solemn Exercises.

BISHOP TOO ILL TO ATTEND

Ten thousand persons attended the ceremony of laying the corner-stone of the new St. Paul's cathedral yesterday afternoon. The absence of Bishop Richard Phelan, owing to his protracted illness, detracted from the completeness of the occasion. Father William A. Cunningham, pastor of St. Colman's church, Turtle Creek, who preached the sermon, referred feelingly to the prelate's sickness and asked his audience to pray for the bishop's recovery.

The greater portion of the enormous crowd was massed in Fifth avenue and Craig street, although several hundred gathered at the west end of the cathedral site in Dithridge street. Every point of vantage was occupied, the stone and lumber piles for the building being black with people. A number of trees around the site were filled with men and boys. Some excitement was created when a shed on the east side of the grounds fell down, the swaying crowd having pushed down the props under it, but no one was hurt. The immense audience was extremely orderly, and the 36 policemen on duty had little to do.

A Stately Procession.

Coadjutor Bishop J. F. Regis Canevin, the ministering priests and the 56 priestly acolytes had gone to the Duquesne garden about 2:30 p. m., where they donned the robes which they were to wear during the ceremonies. Shortly after 3 o'clock they emerged in procession.

Fathers M. McGarry and J. Enright, as chief acolytes, led the procession, and were followed by the acolytes. They were followed by Father John S. Szabo, the cross bearer; Father S. Schramm,

FOUR ARE KILLED, MANY HURT, WHEN TWO CARS COLLIDE

Trolley Accident Near Pelham, N. H., Results in Serious Injuries to Many Passengers Who Were Crushed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Pelham, N. H., Sept. 6.—Through a head-on collision today between two electric cars, each running at the rate of more than 25 miles an hour, four persons were killed and 19 seriously injured; several of them are expected to die. There were 70 passengers on the two cars. Many received cuts and minor wounds.

The accident was on the line which runs through this town between Lowell and Nashua. One of the cars, which was coming from Nashua, was nearly filled with people on their way to a summer resort.

The collision was due, according to the officials of the road, to a misunderstanding of the starter's orders by the motorman of the car bound for Nashua. The car starter endeavored to rectify this mistake by sending a man to shut off the power and trying to recall the Nashua bound car, but it failed. The accident was on a curve, on either side of which were large stretches of straight track. The dead, as reported up to 10 o'clock tonight, were as follows:

CHARLES H. GILBERT, 50 years, Nashua.
GAVRIEL COLLETT, 25 years, Nashua, N. H.
GEORGE C. ANDREWS, 56 years, postmaster, Hudson, N. H.
SAMUEL MAYS, motorman on the Nashua car, Hudson, N. H.

The car from Nashua approached the curve at terrific speed, accentuated by a down grade. The cars met on the curve, neither motorman seeing the approaching car until too late to avoid a collision. Neither was there time for the passengers to escape by jumping. The force threw the westbound car directly upon the forward part of the other, crushing the top of the car down upon the passengers, and pinioning them in the wreckage.

ANOTHER COLLISION.

Three Persons Receive Fatal Injuries Between Philadelphia and Allentown.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Sept. 6.—In a head-on collision between trolley cars at Ft. Washington, on the line between Philadelphia and Allentown, tonight, three persons were probably fatally hurt and over a score sustained more or less serious injuries. Those believed to be fatally hurt are:

John Berkhimer of Eagleton, motorman; Ivan Hunsicker of Philadelphia and Mrs. Harry Hunter of Ambler. The last named two were passengers. It is feared that those named will die, and that the injuries of others may prove fatal.

FIENDISH DEED CAUSES WRECK

Woman Killed and Eleven Persons Injured in Trolley Accident.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 6.—One of the large trolley cars on the Wilkesbarre & Harveys Lake railroad, returning from the lake this afternoon, was wrecked about 4 o'clock, in a mountain gorge, five miles from this city, and plunged down a 30-foot embankment, killing one passenger and injuring 11 others.

The wreck was caused by a stone being placed on the track at a sharp curve by some unknown miscreant, who so far has made good his escape.

The dead:

MRS. MICHAEL WOLFE, of Luzerne borough.

The injured:

WILLIAM EPSTEIN, salesman, of Scranton; seriously injured, internally.
FRANK ROGAL, Wilkesbarre; scalp wound, arm and leg seriously injured; back injured.
THOMAS HALEY, Old Forge; cut on head.

The following were slightly injured, bruised and suffering from shock: Morris Epstein, Scranton, arm and side bruised; W. H. Foust, Wilkesbarre, wrist sprained; Fred Mathews, Scranton, arm sprained; C. E. Moore, Wilkesbarre, ankle sprained; J. R. Little, Wilkesbarre, hip injured; Mrs. J. R. Williams, Westmoor, shock; Mrs. E. Trodhome, Annapolis, Md., shock; John Reynolds, Towanda, Pa., foot injured.

RIVAL COAL COMBINATION

Great Northern Expects to Control Output from Kentucky and Ohio.

TO BE RIVER CONCERN

Plans to Also Use Railroads and Make Cincinnati Its Headquarters.

ITS CAPITAL IS $10,000,000

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Cincinnati, Sept. 6.—The Associated Press dispatches of yesterday mentioned the recording of a mortgage to secure bonds on a new railway from Columbus, O., to Maysville, Ky., to connect east and west trunk lines in the north with the Chesapeake & Ohio, Louisville & Nashville and other southern lines. It is now announced that this line will also extend 20 miles from Maysville, Ky., through Jackson, Pike, Floyd and Martin counties, in Kentucky, so as to form an outlet to the coal fields on the west side of Big Sandy river.

The Great Northern Coal and Coke Company, recently organized with a capital of $10,000,000, owns half a million acres of coal lands in that district, and is said to be promoting the new railway. It is proposed to ship this coal by rail as well as down the Big Sandy and Ohio rivers, as has been done for years.

It is stated that the Great Northern and the Pittsburgh Coal companies will then control the coal trade from Pennsylvania and all states along the Ohio river to New Orleans. Large elevators and tipples are to be erected at Maysville for transferring coal into barges for the trade along the Ohio and Mississippi valleys.

The Great Northern will have its land and railway headquarters in New York, its shipping headquarters at Maysville and its selling headquarters at Cincinnati. The temporary organization of the Great Northern Coal and Coke Company includes J. N. Camden and Spring Camden of Parkersburg, P. L. Kimberly of Sharon, Pa., F. A. Dixley and Robert Nomlon of Chicago, George C. Howe of Duluth, J. C. Mayo of Paintsville, Ky., and members of an eastern syndicate whose names are not made known. It is stated that with connections at Columbus, O., this combine expects also to enter the lake coal trade.

COLOMBIA WANTS TO FRAME NEW TREATY

Senate Takes Steps to Be Re-Open Negotiations on Panama Canal Concessions.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BOGOTA, COLOMBIA, Sept. 6.—The senate has appointed a commission to prepare a bill authorizing the government to negotiate a canal treaty without violating the constitution, but the government has not presented to congress a message which is necessary, asking for reforms in the constitution to meet the wishes of the United States regarding tribunals, the sovereign control of the canal strip and the 100-year lease. The general feeling is favorable to a new treaty.

Senor Marroquin, the actual president of the senate, expressed his admiration for the [illegible] and sincere policy pursued by the United States and hopes that the canal will be opened by them. He says he regrets that he was obliged to oppose the Hay-Herran treaty as being a violation of the laws of the constitution, but he will work strongly for a canal treaty satisfactory to both countries. Senator Obaldia, who has decided to support the canal treaty, has been appointed governor of Panama. He will leave for his post tomorrow.

The government invites the congress to considering the matter of the Panama canal treaty.

GREAT OFFER TO THE CHURCH

Proposition to First Evangelical Congregation to Erect a Block.

PROPERTY WANTED

Handsome Building to Cost $300,000 Suggested and Congregation Acted.

IS FAVORABLY CONSIDERED

The tenants of the property of the First United Evangelical Protestant German church of Pittsburgh made a flattering offer to the congregation yesterday at a church meeting held in the church, Smithfield street and Sixth avenue. The church owns property which extends along Smithfield toward Seventh avenue and has many business concerns as tenants. These men made the following offer to the congregation: If the congregation would give them a lease of 50 years on the property they would erect a six or eight-story building valued at $300,000 on the property. For the first 10 years they would pay to the church $30,000 yearly, for the next 15 years they would pay $35,000 yearly, and for the other 25 years they would pay $40,000 yearly, after which the property would belong to the church. The syndicate of business men agreed to pay all the taxes, insurance and improvements during that time.

The congregation thought favorably of the matter and submitted the proposition to the "kirchenrath," or board of trustees, of which William Froese is president, Ernest Nickel secretary and John Lockhardt, Martin Frommer, Louis Schegel, Simon Diefing and Adam Johns are members. They will hold a meeting within the next month and probably act favorably on the matter, as it is the desire of the members of the congregation to accept the offer.

They voted also at the meeting not to move the church. Many business men and real estate concerns have made offers to the congregation for the church property, but unlike many other congregations they will stay in the city and not move to the suburbs. The church is the oldest in the city. William Penn gave the ground for the church property when Pittsburgh was but a hamlet. The Rev. Fred Hoeff is pastor of the congregation, which includes about 1,200 families.

REGICIDES' PUNISHMENT WILL BE VERY SLIGHT

BELGRADE, SERVIA, Sept. 6.—King Peter and his family have returned here after an absence of 12 days at Nish. The papers report that a reconciliation between the opposing army factions is probable through the friendly influence of Prince Arsene Karageorgevitch, King Peter's brother. It is officially announced that an investigation is proceeding, but any punishment inflicted on the regicides and their co-operators in their conspiracy will be slight.

TWO BOYS BURNED TO DEATH BY INCENDIARIES

SCRANTON, PA., Sept. 6.—Two young sons of M. Epstein, living with their parents over a junk shop, were burned to death tonight in a fire which destroyed the building. The building was an old Jewish synagogue made into a store and residence. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin.

JEALOUS HUSBAND SHOOTS HIS WIFE

ALTOONA, PA., Sept. 6.—(Special)—Insanely jealous, Samuel Andrews, aged 31, while intoxicated last midnight, fatally shot his wife Mary, 27 years old, in Tyrone. He thought she had been talking to other men. She grabbed the revolver and was shot in the right hand first. Then he placed the weapon against her left breast and shot her through the lung.

IMMENSE SUM TO BE ASKED

Western Union Preparing for Important Suit Against P. R. R.

ENGINEERS AT WORK

Getting Evidence to Show Many Destroyed Poles Were Not on Right-of-Way.

NEW LINES ARE BEING BUILT

The Western Union Telegraph Company has a large force of engineers at work along the Pennsylvania railroad east of Pittsburgh marking the boundaries of the Pennsylvania right of way and compiling an estimate of damages which the telegraph company sustained by the railroad cutting down their poles and wires some months ago. This information is to be the basis of a suit for large damages.

In removing the poles, it is claimed, the Pennsylvania destroyed property of the Western Union not on the right of way of the railroad, and this item alone will amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars. This is one of the matters being carefully looked into by the engineers and officials of the Western Union Company.

The Western Union officials claim that a large part of their lines extended outside of the Pennsylvania right of way.

An instance is cited at Marge station, where the Western Union officials found that poles were cut down which were three and four feet outside of the Pennsylvania right of way. At this particular point the Pennsylvania only claims its right of way extends 15 feet from the depot platform.

Between Pittsburgh and the east the Western Union had its poles in many places 50 feet and more from the track, especially at high and low grades. Notwithstanding, the Pennsylvania did not hesitate to cut down every pole in view.

E. B. Saylor, local superintendent of the Western Union, said yesterday that the Western Union had been prepared for the forcible removal of their poles and wires by the Pennsylvania Company and that they had provided for the emergency by duplicating all the lines east of Pittsburgh along the highways and at a safe distance from the Pennsylvania tracks.

The same precaution is being taken by the Western Union along the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh. The time given by the Pennsylvania Company to the Western Union to vacate west of Pittsburgh to Chicago has expired, and the Pennsylvania will shortly cut down the remaining Western Union poles along its tracks. By erecting duplicate poles the Western Union is in a measure prepared for this happening.

TARRED AND FEATHERED BY ANGRY CITIZENS

Mob in West Virginia Oil Settlement Deal Out Summary Justice.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WHEELING, W. VA., Sept. 6.—A score or more of angry citizens of [illegible], an oil settlement in the interior of [illegible] county, administered a coat of tar and feathers to John White, a worthless character of that community, last night. White, under the influence of drink, [illegible] Mrs. L. Perrine, wife of the bookkeeper of the [illegible] Oil and Gas Company, walking on a road near the town.

He assaulted her and made a threat of violence, but Mrs. Perrine's cries attracted help. They arrested White and took him to [illegible], where he was placed under guard in the jail. During the night a score of masked men forcibly took possession of the prisoner and conducted him to the outskirts of the town. His clothing was removed and the tar and feathers were applied.

MAKING A TRIP TO THE MOON

Bigelow Brothers Leave City and Will Not Return for Several Days.

WON'T SEE PENROSE

Say That the Republican State Nominees Will Not Decline Citizens Party Indorsement.

PLATFORM MAKERS ABSENT

Thomas S. and Edward M. Bigelow left for the east last night to be gone for several days. The elder brother said they were journeying to the moon and the trip had nothing to do with politics.

They boarded the New York and Washington section of the 10 o'clock train at East Liberty, and while waiting at the station Thomas S. Bigelow chatted about local politics. He announced that at the meeting tomorrow of his county committee the state Republican nominees would be indorsed. He was confident that the indorsement would not be declined and asserted that Senator M. S. Quay was friendly.

The announcement was also made that the platform for his county ticket had not been hammered into shape. The new declaration of principles is to be written by two men who are still absent on their summer vacations.

Thinks Indorsement Will Stand.

There was a report yesterday that Republican State Chairman Boies Penrose had returned from his western trip. It was said that Bigelow's visit east was to confer with Penrose and endeavor to induce him to have the Republican state nominees accept the indorsement of the Citizens party.

"I am not going east to see Penrose," said Bigelow, "about the acceptance of the Citizens indorsement. Our county committee will meet Tuesday and formally indorse the state candidates. While I have no positive information on the matter, I am confident that the candidates will not decline the profered aid. I am satisfied that Senator Quay is with us. The candidates will no doubt take the same position that Judge Pennypacker did last fall when a nominee of the Republicans for governor. He wanted votes and would not refuse an offer of aid from any direction.

"The county committee will not do anything with the platform. The matter has been turned over to the gentlemen who are now on their vacations. They will probably return the latter part of the week and will then prepare a platform. I have nothing to say at this time about what planks it will contain."

Moore Wants a Job.

Bigelow was asked what would be done with the Eleventh and Fourteenth ward contests now pending before the county committee. "I do not know much about the differences in the Eleventh ward," said he, "but the Fourteenth ward contest can be settled in three minutes. The two factions out there can be gotten together. Many of the men who were with W. J. Moore have gone over to the other side. Moore wants a position. He would liked to have been a police magistrate. I suppose that if it is necessary a place can be found for him. He drops in to see me and seems to be very friendly. No, I do not know anything about what Mr. Stevenson will do."

Bigelow says that James W. Clark, director of the department of charities, will be put in charge of the headquarters during the fall campaign. The Eighth district association is to meet at headquarters tomorrow. The purpose of the gathering is to have the candidates meet the workers. The other district associations will hold meetings for the same purpose during the week.

Bigelow expects to have J. Merrill Wright appointed attorney for the pure food bureau to succeed T. Carlisle Moore. He says that there is no objection to Mr. Moore, but that Wright has sufficient influence back of him to get him the place.

PROTEGE OF ANDREWS GETS APPOINTMENT

HARRISBURG, Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Commissioner Hunter has settled the contest for chief clerk of the new state department of highways by appointing Roy D. Berman of Meadville. Mr. Berman is a protege of W. R. Andrews, secretary of the Republican state committee, and is the first appointee from Crawford county under the Pennypacker administration.

Business Blocks Burned.

WINCHESTER, KY., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—A fire broke out here early this morning, consuming the livery stable of J. A. Hughes, the grocery of Thomas Barnes, the blacksmith shop of K. S. Krimes and the laundry of Tom Lee. The loss will be about $20,000, with less than $6,000 insurance. The buildings were owned by B. Fulton French, the attorney for Curt Jett at the recent murder trials at Jackson and Cynthiana.

TEN THOUSAND AT NEW CATHEDRAL CORNER STONE LAYING CEREMONY

master of cantors; Father M. Lynch, minister of holy water; Father M. Christopher, minister of pontificale; Father Miles Sweeney, master of ceremonies; Father D. Malady, minister of miter; Father W. Graham, minister of crozier; Father A. A. Lambing, subdeacon; Father Edgar, deacon, and Vicar General E. L. Tobin, assistant priest. Bishop Canevin, clad in his pontifical robes and wearing the mitre, brought up the rear. The procession crossed Craig street and ascended a flight of steps at the north end of the foundation, to the top of the wall, around and on top of which a board walk had been laid.

Cross Marks the Altar.

On the spot where the main altar will stand a plain wooden cross was erected, and at this point the procession paused, the bishop recited the prayer of the ritual and the accompanying priests broke out into chant. The bishop sprinkled the walls with holy water and the procession proceeded around the wall to the southeastern corner, where a pause was made. The bishop recited prayers and singing of the psalms was resumed. Then the march to the corner stone was taken up.

The stone, suspended by a derrick, hung over the foundation wall, workmen steadying it as it hung. The bishop, accompanied by Father Miles Sweeney, master of ceremonies, descended to the stone, sprinkled it with holy water and recited the appropriate prayers; then the bishop ascended to the platform and the litany of the saints was sung by the priests. The bishop again descended to the corner stone, mortar was laid over the bed plate, and the bishop, with a new trowel, spread the mortar; a copper box was deposited in a cavity cut for the purpose, the stone was lowered and was again blessed with holy water, after which the bishop returned to the platform. The procession resumed its march around the walls, the priests singing a psalm, and the bishop sprinkling the foundation with holy water.

History of the Cathedral.

Father William A. Cunningham, pastor of St. Colman's church, Turtle Creek, preached the sermon. His text was taken from Matthew xxviii:20: "Behold, I am with you all days, even to the consummation of the world."

He said in part:

On this momentous occasion there must loom up before us the miraculous beginning of the church of God, as well as the rapid advancement of the Pittsburgh diocese, small, almost insignificant 50 years ago. Nineteen hundred years have passed since the Son of God took 12 ignorant fishermen and sent them forth to convert the world. It was a stupendous task He had set for them. They were obliged to meet the prejudice of the Jews, who in recognizing Christ would have been obliged to admit that they had crucified the Messiah of their prophet; they had to meet the prejudices of the Gentiles; they had to combat the philosophy of the age, and an idolatrous and superstitious religion. Instead of this religion, they were to preach modesty, humility, continency and raze the heathen temples. They were to meet opposition and persecution.

Remarking how apparently unfitted the apostles were for the task by reason of their inconstancy, their ambition for preferment, their denial and their abandonment of Christ in His last suffering, Father Cunningham showed how by the descending of the Holy Ghost they were clothed with the ability to do the things Christ intended them to do. He continued:

Foundation of the Church.

As this corner stone is the foundation of the beautiful edifice that is to rise here, so authority is the very basis, the foundation of the church of Christ. Christ came to eradicate sin, to establish a doctrine, to enable us to work out our salvation, to establish a means to dissipate the darkness. This means is the holy church.

The preacher briefly outlined the persecutions of the church for 300 years under the Roman empire, which exerted its entire strength to crush out the growing religion; he told of the attempts to destroy its unity by heresy and schism in the early days, attempts which had failed, he century. He then said:

The struggles of the church find a counterpart in the Pittsburgh diocese. The Catholic church in Pittsburgh had a small beginning and met with opposition. In 1754 the first mass was said on the site of the present city. The first Catholic pastor began his labors here in 1808, when only 300 Catholics were in the region. Father Maguire succeeded him as pastor of a church on the site of the old St. Paul's cathedral. In 1843 a diocese was created, with a bishop, 25 priests and 35 churches, while during the first 10 years there were only 40,000 Catholics.

Growth of the Diocese.

After showing how priests had been ordained, religious orders multiplied and churches increased in number, Father Cunningham said that now the bishop of the diocese could see about him 300,000 Catholics, 300 priests and 245 churches. He concluded:

And now, instead of a great diocesan debt, we have a parish church, with school and parochial residence, without one cent of debt upon them, and we have this beautiful cathedral rising. It is the bishop's desire that this building shall be erected free of debt. There is enough money to erect the building, but the interior embellishment will be costly or cheap as the Catholics of the diocese may desire. It is hoped that their contributions will produce an interior worthy of the diocese.

After the sermon psalm was chanted and the ceremonies were concluded.

Among interested spectators of the services were William Grogan of Forbes street, who saw the laying of the corner stone of the first cathedral built in 1851, and John McGann. McGann was often told by his mother that she held him in her arms and that he witnessed as a baby the laying of the corner stone of St. Paul's parish church, on the site of the old cathedral, in 1837.

Thanks from Church Committee.

At a special meeting of the church committee after the ceremonies a resolution was passed thanking Mayor William B. Hays for police protection; President James D. Callery of the Pittsburgh Railways Company for the use of Duquesne garden, where the priests robed, the collectors who came from the different parishes of the diocese for the services, and the many non-Catholics who attended the ceremonies and contributed to the church fund. About $1,000 was raised.

The box placed in the corner stone contained the following:

A memorial volume of Cathedral Record, containing a history of the parish, its bishops, priests, people and churches from 1753 to May 10, 1903, with pictures of buildings, sketches and portraits of the bishops of the diocese of Pittsburgh, etc.

A history of the new cathedral to the date of laying the corner stone.

A volume of the Catholic Directory for 1903, giving statistics of the church in the United States and Canada.

Names of the priests of the diocese.

Statistics of the diocese.

Course of study in the parochial schools.

Portraits of Leo XIII. and Pius X., with an account of the death of one and the election of the other. Portraits of Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Ryan, Mgr. Falconio and bishops of the province.

Catholic papers and copies of daily papers containing notices of the ceremony of laying the corner stone, the names of the priests and officers of the ceremony.

Various old medals, coins, etc.—among them small ciborium, crucifix, large bronze medallion of St. Peter and St. Paul, bronze statue of the Blessed Virgin from the Sisters of Charity, medal of St. Benedict and St. Ann, golden jubilee medal from the Sisters of Mercy, a watch made in Ireland 100 years ago, Father Matthew total abstinence medal, a fragment of the Limerick treaty stone, autographs and mementos of all kinds presented by priests and members of the cathedral parish.

BISHOP PHELAN BETTER.

Recovering from Severe Cold Contracted Some Time Ago.

Although Bishop Richard Phelan was not at the corner stone laying of the new St. Paul's cathedral yesterday his health is better than it was, so it was said at the temporary episcopal residence at the Epiphany church yesterday. Bishop Phelan is still at St. Paul's Orphan asylum at Idlewood and he is able to walk about and enjoy the air when the weather is pleasant.

About the time Pope Leo died Bishop Phelan was seized with a cold, which was followed by complications which made him seriously ill for a while. He is now better.

TURKS BURN TOWNS AND MURDER IN MACEDONIA

that the most stringent measures should be adopted to prevent anything likely to cause a disturbance in Bulgaria's relations with Turkey. The war minister is reported to have spoken strongly in the council against any thought of Bulgaria declaring war on Turkey.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—A letter from Beirut describes the condition of affairs there as scandalous. It says:

"Not only bribery and corruption are rampant in every branch of the administration, but a certain lawlessness is manifesting itself among the Moslem element which, if not suppressed, is sure to cause trouble in the future. The native Christians are oppressed, but they dare not complain, while the Europeans no longer enjoy the security which existed a few years ago. The house of the Italian consul was lately rifled by burglars and the vice consul was fired at. Arrests were made, but it always happens that the innocent man is made to suffer for the crime."

Leishman Waits Developments.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 6.—United States Minister Leishman is not taking any steps regarding the attempt upon the life of Vice Consul Magelssen at Beirut, but is quietly awaiting developments on the part of the porte.

Referring to the declarations made by Chekib Bey, the Turkish minister at Washington, in an interview with him August 29, which have been cabled here, it is pointed out in Constantinople that the porte would have obviated all the present disagreement between the United States and Turkey had it executed its engagements made last year and therefore the Ottoman government is alone blameable for the present relations between the two countries.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The administration is awaiting with some interest reports from United States Minister Leishman at Constantinople, and Admiral Cotton, commanding the European squadron in Turkish waters, whose cruisers, the Brooklyn and San Francisco, are now at Beirut, as to the condition of affairs in their respective localities. On their advices will depend the disposition of Admiral Cotton's ships.

ROME, Sept. 6.—Pius X. has represented to the Austrian minister the advisability, especially on the part of the Catholic powers, of coming to an agreement as to the best way to stop the massacres in Macedonia.

Several cardinals have expressed the opinion that the pontiff should publicly denounce the situation in Macedonia to the civilized world without distinction of religion, calling on all the powers to take common action on humanitarian grounds.

BENQUET IS CRAZY.

Man Who Wrote Threatening Letter to Hay Is Declared Insane.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Francis W. Benquet, who sent a threatening letter to Secretary of State Hay, and who for years has given trouble to officials at Washington with letters, was today declared insane by Dr. Gregory in the psychopathic ward at Bellevue hospital. He will be committed to an institution for the insane for permanent care.

Dr. Gregory said tonight that Benquet's mania is that of being persecuted. Benquet, even today, wrote several letters. He says that he wrote to Mrs. McKinley, among others.

WILKINSBURG DRUGGISTS STILL SELL SODA WATER

Druggists W. L. Smith and S. W. Covell sold soda water and ice cream as usual in Wilkinsburg yesterday and they will be sued as usual some time today by the committee of five. Two detectives were at work in the borough and they will enter suits against the Penn Ice Company employes and officials, probably today. A truce has been declared between the contending parties until the return of the chairman of the committee of five, who is away on his vacation. When he returns negotiations between the two committees will be continued and a settlement of the fight is expected to result.

GREAT DRAINAGE CANAL OPENED IN COLORADO

CRIPPLE CREEK, COL., Sept. 6.—The great drainage tunnel, which has been in process of construction since last January, was completed and put in operation this morning. When the valves in the bulkheads were opened a stream of water two feet in depth poured through the tunnel into Cripple Creek. It is estimated that the flow will reach 4,000 gallons a minute. The tunnel is for the purpose of carrying off the water from the mines in the territory traversed and is 5,000 feet in length. The cost was $80,000.

ADVICE TO PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS AND PUPILS

The Rev. W. B. Slutz, D. D., pastor of the Lincoln Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, preached his annual sermon to the teachers, board of directors and scholars of the upper grades of the schools in that section of the city. Dr. Slutz's topic was "Our Youth in School." "Thoroughness and Progress" is the motto Dr. Slutz would have every scholar adopt. He spoke of the influence of early friends made in school and the relation of children, parents and teachers. The church was filled and a large part of the audience were young folks.

STATE CAMPAIGN TO BEGIN TODAY

Secretary Andrews Predicts Republican Ticket Will Win by Increased Majority.

NO TOUR BY CANDIDATES

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Press Building,
PHILADELPHIA, PA., Sept. 6.

Wesley R. Andrews, secretary of the Republican state committee, and his corps of assistants arrived today from Meadville. Although tomorrow is Labor day, Mr. Andrews will open state headquarters and begin the preliminary campaign work.

"I do not expect Senator Penrose, the state chairman, home until near the end of the month," said Colonel Andrews tonight, "but we will go to work tomorrow. I did not think of Labor day falling on September 7 until this afternoon, when some of the boys asked if they should report tomorrow. Those who had made Labor day engagements I told not to come around, but headquarters will be open. A heavy mail has accumulated and it will require several days to dispose of it.

"The outlook for the fall campaign, from the Republican viewpoint, is most promising. There is no disaffection within the party in any part of the state, and Republicans are enthusiastic in their support of the ticket. It's an easy fight, but the organization will perform its duty just as though conditions were otherwise.

"The greatest danger to be met is overconfidence. While the organization of Pennsylvania is certain of success, it will not become apathetic because of this fact.

"No, I do not think the Republican candidates will make a tour of the state this fall. It is not necessary. Meetings will be held wherever conditions appear to demand, but so far we have no calls for assistance. Every Republican county chairman who has written me, and all have done so, predicts an increased majority for the state and county tickets. By the time Chairman Penrose returns I expect to have all of the preliminary work done and will be ready to execute any plans he may have in mind."

ATTEMPTED TO MURDER GIRL AND HIS RIVAL

Jealous Young Man Failed to Kill Couple and Shot Himself.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CANAAN, N. H., Sept. 6.—A shooting affray, said to have been prompted by jealousy and which led to the attempted suicide of the assailant, was reported today by Joseph Graham and Miss Josie Nelson, who state that while driving they were met by William Impreta, a former suitor of the young lady, who drove his team directly across the road and without a word began firing his revolver at them.

Two bullets struck the back of their carriage seat, one going through Graham's coat, one through his hand, shattering the bone, while one struck Miss Nelson in the arm near the elbow, coming out near the wrist.

Later Impreta's house was found barricaded and, the door being forced, he was discovered on the floor with a deep wound in his head. It is thought that he will recover.

STOLE THE HORSE AND BUGGY FROM THE DOOR

George Moore of Allegheny yesterday at 6 o'clock p. m., hired an expensive rig of Perry Charles & Co., livery stables, South and West Diamond streets, and drove to the home of a woman acquaintance. He left the rig unattended and while in the house an unknown man got into the buggy, drove down the street a short way, took in a woman and hurriedly disappeared. Perry Charles reported the matter to the Allegheny police last night, saying that he wants his $600 horse recovered at any cost.

DOUBLE DROWNING OCCURS ON HUDSON

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Four young men who had been spending their vacations at the Y. M. C. A. summer camp opposite Inwood were caught in the turbulent waters of the Hudson near the Manhattan shore today in a small boat and two of them were drowned as a result of the capsizing of the boat. The boys drowned were William Parks, 19 years old, and J. Baldwin, 18 years old, of Harrison, East Newark, N. J.

ATTEMPT TO KILL NEW KING OF SERVIA

VIENNA, Sept. 6.—Special dispatches give an unconfirmed report of an attempt on the life of King Peter of Servia at Nish on Saturday. It is said that stones were thrown at the royal carriage, one striking the king in the face, and a pistol was fired from a neighboring window. It is also rumored that the Sixth Servian regiment, notorious for the part it played in the recent regicides, has been ordered to Nish.

THE REV. W. G. TAYLOR DIES AT HOME IN BEAVER

Prominent Presbyterian Minister Passes Away After Long Career.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BEAVER, PA., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—The Rev. William G. Taylor, one of the most distinguished divines of the Beaver Valley, died at his home in Beaver tonight. Fifteen years ago he relinquished active participation in church work, because of his advanced age.

He was born in Pittsburgh March 3, 18[illegible], and was graduated from Washington and Jefferson college in 1847. During the next two years he took a special course in the Western Theological seminary, Allegheny, being graduated in 1849.

His first charge was the Beaver Presbyterian church, and he passed his life practically in this vicinity, although he served intermittent pastorates at Tarentum and Mt. Carmel. On April 13, 1849, he married Miss Charlotte Thompson, who survives with the following children: Mrs. M. M. Martin of St. Paul, Minn.; Mrs. Ellen M. Stewart of Beaver; James W. Taylor of Beaver, and John C. and Herbert J. Taylor of Monaca.

FISHERMEN GET HELP.

State Department Takes Hand in Dispute Over Lake Boundaries.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 6.—The state department at Washington has informed Representative Alexander that the department has authorized the consul-general of the United States in Canada to retain counsel in the case of the fishing tug Kittie D. seized off Dunkirk, in Lake Erie, by the Canadian boat Petrel, a few months ago.

An effort will be made to have the imaginary line between Canadian and American waters marked by buoys. American fishermen claim that the Canadian patrol boats arbitrarily declare the location of the boundary in mid-lake and seize their vessels when the exact location of the dividing line is in doubt.

MINE OWNERS AGREED TO PAY THE MILITIA

CRIPPLE CREEK, COL., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—No perceptible change in the strike situation has occurred today. The Mine Owners' association expects to start many of the mines on Tuesday next, employing non-union miners, and they are confident that this will end the strike troubles under the present military protection. It was learned today that the militia was not ordered out by Gov. Peabody until the mine owners had guaranteed to defray the expenses of the guard during its stay here. The state will dispense the money to the troops, it is said, after which the mine owners will reimburse the Colorado treasury. Under this plan the mine owners are under a heavy expense.

MULTI-MILLIONAIRE'S SON EMPLOYED IN A FOUNDRY

DERBY, CONN., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Franklin Farrell, Jr., son of Franklin Farrell, a multi-millionaire, has just entered his father's foundry as a machinist's apprentice. He works 10 hours a day over a grindstone and receives $4 a week. He was graduated last June from Yale, where he was a member of the famous "Jolly Eight," who brought Carrie Nation to Yale. He was voted the best dressed man in his class. He has just returned from a trip to Cleveland in his $10,000 touring car with his sister, Miss Elsie, who entered her father's office as a stenographer two years ago. Mr. Farrell knew nothing of his son's purpose to learn the practical side of his complicated business until the young man had actually gone to work.

MURDERED HIS SON TO END HIS MISERY

CARSON, NEV., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—A strange story of murder and suicide has come from Shurz, on the Carson & Colorado railroad. An aged Indian, George Sex, lived with his wife, daughter and son in a wigwam near Shurz. A few months ago the little daughter was stricken ill, and after the application of Indian remedies, which failed to afford relief, Sex called upon white physicians, but they gave the case up as hopeless. The boy became ill recently and as he writhed in agony the father determined to end his misery, seized a gun and fired. The lad died instantly. Before those who heard the report of the gun could reach the wigwam the father killed himself.

AMERICAN SYNDICATE TO CORNER POTTERY CLAY

LONDON, Sept. 6.—(Special.)—According to the Daily Mail the prosperity of the entire pottery district of Staffordshire is threatened by a cornering scheme of gigantic proportions by a syndicate of American capitalists now in England. They propose to buy up at a cost estimated at between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000 all mines in England that produce "ball clay." The acquisition of the mines would enable the American syndicate to demand whatever price they chose for the clay.

CONSPIRACY TO RUIN OIL WELLS

Alleged Discovery of Salt Water Pumped Into Beaumont Field.

CAME FROM GULF OF MEXICO

Claim Is Made That Pumping Station Was Used by Conspirators to Destroy the Product of Good Producers of Fuel Oil.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

FORT WORTH, TEX., Sept. 6.—The Fort Worth Telegram of today printed the most startling story that ever came out of the Beaumont oil fields and states that its informant is one of the most prominent men of Fort Worth, who returned from Beaumont on Saturday.

This man declares that the numerous oil wells that were apparently ruined by salt water were put in that condition by conspirators. As fast as a company went to the wall its property was bought in by the Standard Oil Company.

The Standard Oil Company long ago built a pipe line from Beaumont to the gulf of Mexico. A pumping station was erected at Beaumont and another at the gulf. Oil was pumped through the pipe line to the gulf and thence shipped to various parts of the world.

Suddenly many wells of independent companies had salt water in them. One day not long ago one of the pumping stations got out of working order and oil pumping to the gulf had to be suspended while repairs were being made. Suddenly wells that had been giving out fully one-half salt water began to flow nothing but oil, good fuel oil, it is declared.

That put an investigation on foot. The investigators secretly at night plugged the pipe line at the Beaumont end. They detoured several miles into the country, dug into the ground over the pipe line, made a tapping into the line and salt water gushed into the air nearly 100 feet. It is claimed that the pressure was from the gulf pumping station and that salt water was being pumped to Beaumont and into wells that the conspirators desired to wreck; that there was no pressure from the Beaumont end because of the plugging of the pipe.

The informant of the Telegram declares that a force of detectives is at work to develop who is connected with the conspiracy.

JUMPED FROM BLAZING SECOND-STORY OF HOME

Fire at Keating Causes $25,000 Loss—Woman Has Narrow Escape from Death.

Fire broke in the Italian settlement at Keating last night and destroyed six frame buildings, valued with their contents, at about $25,000.

The fire was evidently of incendiary origin. John Rago discovered the flames issuing from a two-story frame building opposite the Carrie blast furnace. He gave the alarm and aroused the sleepers but not until the fire had gained considerable headway.

Mrs. Lucien Marquise jumped from the second story of her house during the excitement and was bruised about the back.

The houses were close together and burned like tinder. They were owned by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and occupied by many Italian families.

SUPPOSED ROBBER DEAD.

Man Charged With Stealing Diamonds Had Fractured Skull.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 6.—An autopsy held today on the body of the man supposed to have been implicated in the theft of diamonds from the loan shop of M. J. Daniels, and who died after being taken to the city prison, showed that death was caused by a fracture of the skull, producing a blood clot on the brain. How the man received the injury is a mystery, as he was not hit by anyone in the pursuit.

No clew to his identity has been obtained. The second robber has not been apprehended. An inventory of the stolen gems, furnished the police today, shows their aggregate value to be about $5,000.

TWO BOYS' NECKS WERE BROKEN BY FALLS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Two boys' necks were broken today in Camden by falls from buildings. One died instantly and the other is in a serious condition in Cooper hospital. The boy who met his death was Pasquale Palmer, 7 years old, of No. 612 Ferry avenue. He fell from the roof of a three-story building. His parents heard the body strike the ground. He was taken into the house by his mother and died in her arms. Maximilian Paubinski, 18 years old, of No. 1151 Chestnut street, while walking in his sleep, walked out of a second story window.

PLAGUE OF TOADS THREATENS A RESORT

WAUKESHA, WIS., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Waukesha is suffering from a plague of toads, which threatens to bring an exodus of resorters before the season ends on September 15. For the past few nights the sidewalks and streets have been literally alive with the animals and the fashionable women guests at the different summer hotels are afraid to venture out, even with male escorts.

CURTIS JETT TO BE TRIED FOR A SECOND MURDER

LEXINGTON, KY., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Curtis Jett, in jail here, will be taken to Cynthiana tomorrow, where his trial for the assassination of Marshall James Cockrell of Jackson is to be called. His attorneys are present and will oppose trying him for the Cockrell case until his appeal in the Marcum assassination case in which he was given a life sentence, is acted upon.

Pittsburgh Cattleman Hurt.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Oliver Williams, a cattleman of Pittsburgh, was brought to this city early today in a precarious condition resulting from an accident in the Lake Shore yards at Toledo. Williams was taking a carload of cattle from Kansas City to East Rochester, N. Y. He stepped between two of the cars to examine the coupling. Just at that moment the cars were jammed together by the backing of the engine. He is expected to recover.

Henry Sanford Is Dead.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN., Sept. 6.—Henry Sanford, vice president of the Adams Express Company, died at his residence here today of apoplexy. Mr. Sanford was 80 years old. He is survived by one son, Samuel Sanford, professor of music at Yale university.

ROOSEVELT GOES TO STATE FAIR

President's Train Makes Record Run from Oyster Bay to New York.

ON HIS WAY TO SYRACUSE

Chief Magistrate Chats With a Former Appointee Who Is a Police Sergeant. Mounted Guard Preceded Carriage from Ferry.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Sept. 6.

President Roosevelt and his party, who left Oyster Bay tonight, beginning their trip to Syracuse, enjoyed a record run of nearly a mile a minute to Long Island City.

Arriving at Long Island City, the president was delighted by a meeting which served as a reminder of his days as police commissioner in New York. He recognized in Police Commissioner Greene's personal attendant, Sergt. Edward Bourke, a man whom he had himself promoted from the ranks during his fight for the Sunday closing of saloons in 1895.

"I am delighted to meet you again," exclaimed Mr. Roosevelt, as he stepped from the train and grasped the sergeant by the hand. "I remember, you were an old man-of-warsman and took six months leave during the war with Spain to serve on a vessel. Which one was it? The Hist—oh, yes, the Hist. That was a fine thing for you to do. The right thing, too."

Mr. Roosevelt and his family had spent a quiet day at Oyster Bay. The president and Mrs. Roosevelt, with Ethel and Archie, attended services in Christ Episcopal church. His only visitor, who took luncheon with him, was James R. Garfield, son of the late President Garfield, who is commissioner of corporations in the department of commerce and labor.

At Long Island City Commissioner Greene met the president and chatted with him in the car while a special ferry boat was being put in readiness for his trip.

After bidding goodby to Mr. Garfield, Mr. Roosevelt and Gen. Greene entered a carriage and were driven aboard the ferryboat. They reached East Thirty-fourth street at 10 o'clock. A mounted guard in waiting preceded the president's carriage on the drive across the city to the Christopher street ferry. Throughout the trip an unusually close guard was kept over the president by six secret service men.

When President Roosevelt stepped aboard the private car in Hoboken, just before midnight, a powerfully built man caused considerable excitement by persistently trying to follow, and making several efforts to speak to the chief executive. He was seized by the chief of police of Hoboken and two policemen and hustled into a waiting room, where he was searched. He was found to be unarmed and papers found on his person indicated that he had written for a Hoboken newspaper. He gave his name as William Bailey and was released, but the police watched him closely until he left the station.

TURKISH SPIES WATCH MISS ELLEN M. STONE

CHELSEA, MASS., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Ellen M. Stone is here, having temporarily discontinued the lecture platform because, as her friends and associates say, she does not wish to have any of her own words bear even indirectly upon the troubles in Turkish territory, and besides, Turkish spies, of whom plenty are at work locally, are hanging around the Stone residence, as they are also around the home of Miss Dunbar, another missionary. Miss Stone practically refuses to be seen. At the American board headquarters Greek, Turkish and Armenian peddlers have been barred, as the officials do not wish to take chances with spies.

SUICIDE COMMITTED IN FAIRMOUNT PARK

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6.—The body of a man believed to be W. B. Shively was found sitting upright on a bench near Rockland mansion in Fairmount park this morning. His death had been caused by a gunshot wound in the mouth, and a revolver with an empty cartridge in one chamber lay nearby in the grass. The suicide was about 37 years old, tall, slender and well dressed. In his pockets were found less than $1 in money, a pawn ticket from a New York shop, a prescription from a New York physician and a laundry check from York, Pa.

ELOPERS STOPPED FUNERAL; WERE MARRIED IN CEMETERY

DANVILLE, ILL., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Elbowing his way through the crowd of mourners assembled at the graveside, Samuel Smalley, aged 30, stopped a funeral sermon in Spring Hill cemetery here long enough to be married to Mrs. Anna Wagner, aged 27, from near Rockville, Ind. It was a runaway match and Smalley breathlessly explained to the Rev. J. E. Greening that the relatives of the blushing woman by his side were on their way post haste to stop the match. The minister acceded to Smalley's wishes.

HIS HORSE DECIDED WHOM HE SHOULD MARRY

DUBLIN, IND., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Mrs. Ralph E. Brown of Clayton, in a divorce suit against her husband, brings out the plea that Brown, on the second day of their marriage, admitted to her that their wedding had been accidental and that he, finding himself undecided as to whether to go to Clayton and marry the plaintiff, or go to Indianapolis and marry another woman, left the decision to his horse on coming to a fork in the road, and that the horse decided to turn into the Clayton road. The wedding took place August 27, last year.

UPTON WAS DOPED BY UNKNOWN PARTIES

SOUTH HAVEN, MICH., Sept. 6.—A young man, who gave his name as Weston Upton of No. 211 Dayton street, Chicago, was found unconscious on the steamer Eastland today, and it was discovered that he had been drugged and robbed of $40 in cash. Dr. Spooner said the young man had been given a heavy dose of chloral hydrate. Upton was taken to Chicago tonight, and when the boat left here at 6 o'clock he was rigid and unconscious.

LEWIS ADVISES MINERS TO END THEIR STRIKE

Vice President of Union Tells Missouri Men They Made Mistake.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

KIRKSVILLE, MO., Sept. 6.—Members of District No. 25, of the United Mine Workers of America, held a secret meeting at Novinger, Mo., today, attended by 500 miners, but nothing was accomplished to change the strike situation.

Vice President Lewis of the organization addressed the meeting urging the men to go back to work. He attempted to show the men that their action in declaring a strike made it more difficult to obtain demands from the operators and injured the prestige and power of the national officers and the national organization. Mr. Lewis advised the men to resume work and await results of the conference with operators to be held in Kansas City next Thursday.

District President Colville and James Rooney also made brief addresses. Vice President Lewis will go to Chicago tomorrow to confer with President Mitchell concerning the strike situation at Novinger. The strikers have no fear of losing their charter, and the national officers have not threatened to take their charter away from them.

Newest Dress Trimmings and Garnitures.

Paris sets the fashion in dress trimmings, and we herewith present many of her favorites, the collection going to make the most comprehensive line of trimmings we have ever shown.

Long black Pendants are going to be used extensively—75c each and up to $2.

Small black and white Drop Ornaments, with ball or tassel ends, 5c each and up to 25c.

Black spangled Drops, fancy tops with separate pendants, 10c each and up to 50c.

Black and White Tassels, all sizes, 5c each and up to 50c.

Black fibre Silk Braid, with Persian applications—1 1-2 inches to 3 inches wide—$1.35 to $1.75 a yard.

Wide black spangled Gimp—separable patterns or straight bands—$1.50 to $4 a yard.

Narrow spangle Edges—1-2 inch to 1 inch—10c to 25c a yard.

Wide black and steel spangled Gimps—separable designs—$2.50 to $4 a yard.

Black and steel Drops to match the spangled Gimp, 25c each to 50c.

New Applique, all colors, wide and narrow, 50c to $6 a yard.

Colored Lace Insertings, all colors, 2 inches wide, 50c a yard.

New Persian Bands, all the new combinations of colors—narrow and wide—50c and up to $6 a yard.

Persian Lamb Trimming, made of silk to imitate the real fur, beautiful designs, 50c and up to $3 a yard.

New black Girdle Belts with tassel ends, $1.25 and $1.50 each.

Black and white Belting, both stitched and plain, 25c and 35c a yard.

Peter Thompson emblems, both of wool and of cotton, 25c to 75c each.

A special item in this department is a beautiful Silk Fibre Trimming in imitation of fur, having the center of the band exquisitely embroidered with a Persian design in Persian colorings. It was the rage at the New York Fashion show, 5 inches wide, $5 a yard.

XXX Sealskin Coats, $225.00

These sealskin coats arrived Saturday, and we would ask women to pay particular attention to what we have to say about them.

First, as to the price, $225.00. It is not necessary to go into detail how our buyer came across these coats in New York last week, but we desire to say in all sincerity that we have coats of a similar grade on order which we will be compelled to sell for $350 when they arrive.

Next, as to the quality of seal. It is XXX Alaska and there is no better fur ever goes into a sealskin coat.

The lengths are 22, 24 and 36 inches, the sizes 34, 36 and 38. Coat is the regulation style, with new bell sleeves.

Is this of interest enough to draw you to the Fur Department, second floor, today?

Our New Imported Robes and Imported Conceits With Which to Trim Them.

The materials are Taffeta, Crepe de Chine and Lace—they are ready for your dressmaker to spend a short time in putting together—and they are the most beautiful unmade Robes that we ever asked women to see.

Unmade Robes of black Taffeta, trimmed with wood fibre lace and additional material to make the new long coat effect, $40 and up to $60.

Unmade Robes of black Crepe Velour, $75.

Unmade Robes of Chantilly Net, trimmed with wood fibre lace and wood fagotting—white and black—$45 and up to $65.

Unmade Robes of Oriental Lace in white and the new Paris shades, $15 and up to $50.

And here are the new materials just in, which Paris says are the correct thing with which to trim these robes.

Black Silk Venise Lace Bands, in sets of three widths—1 1-2 inches to 6 inches—50c a yard up to $5.

Black Silk Cluny Lace Bands, 50c a yard and up to $2.50.

Black Spangled Nets from $1 a yard up to $6.

Black Venise All-over Lace, 18 inches wide, from $2 a yard up to $12.

Venise Lace All-overs, from $1 a yard up to $3.

Monday, September 7, 1903.

Commander Robert E. Peary is about to try once more to reach the north pole, this time with a thoroughly up-to-date American equipment. The ship, the machinery and the accessories are all to be American-made, and the explorer, who is no stranger to Arctic difficulties, hopes this time to be successful in reaching the goal. We hope he may. At the least, he may penetrate farther than Nansen and set a new mark in the race. As for the three years' leave of absence, the navy department can afford to give him that. It is a little short of officers and men for the new fighting craft, but then the north pole is an object of much interest, and the navy has no extra-hazardous business on hand at the moment.

Apparently the last has not been heard from the pole-chopping exploit of the Pennsylvania railroad. In order to make a complete job of destruction it is said the axmen did not confine their attention to poles on the railroad right of way, but cut all along the line. The Western Union, it appears, is investigating this matter, and contemplates suing for damages for all poles cut that were not on railroad land. The pole cutting has already caused considerable trouble, but at this rate the end has not been reached. From the first the controversy was recognized as a battle of the giants, and unless it is compromised no mortal can predict where it will end. The men who control great interests sometimes exhibit human weaknesses just like common folk.

There is a movement on the part of the present administration of the department of agriculture at Harrisburg to discover what became of the important business begun by the previous administration. It is timely. The records indicate that a link is missing. There are no charges of malfeasance, but there are grounds for investigation. If the investigation shows any need for housecleaning the job should be done thoroughly and completely. A good precedent has been set by the postal affairs inquiry at Washington. No false alarms about possible political effects should ever deter the administration of full justice. We do not agree that the oleo laws are quite right, but as long as a law is on the statute books it ought to be enforced, not sidetracked for special interests.

Russia, England and Turkey are all busy laying in a supply of coal. This may mean much or little. It means they are preparing for war, but preparations for war are often the surest signs of peace. Turkey, it is quite certain, is not to have peace, for it now has war. But it is not certain whether that war will be confined to its own territory and the contiguous Balkans, or whether it will spread to include the other nations that are buying coal. We do not believe that Russia and England will soon be at war with each other, but that is possible. Wars come where they are not expected, like accidents. The atmosphere of Europe is thick, and when the explosion comes, preliminary to clearing it, no man can tell how wide will be the disaster. Even the distant United States may be involved in the midst of it.

Mrs. Graeme Hunter may be the next challenger for the America's cup. She confesses to a strong desire to take that trophy back to England and to a belief that she knows a designer who may be able to draw the lines for a boat that can turn the trick. Good! Mrs. Hunter will be welcomed as a challenger. She cannot at once take the place of Sir Thomas Lipton in American affections, but it is open to her to win an even higher place. If she proves as fair an opponent, as good a loser and as persistent a challenger as Sir Thomas, she will be loved to her heart's content. One thing must be understood, however. Mrs. Graeme Hunter can count upon the gallantry of the American yachtsmen, but not to the extent of permitting her to win the cup on the first trial. To that the lady should make up her mind before letting a contract for a boat.

Announcement was made yesterday of the fact that The Gazette has obtained exclusive rights for the publication of James Howard Bridge's "History of the Carnegie Steel Company." This is a book of most intense interest, for the author goes behind the scenes and tears the mask from the methods that have caused $5,000 to grow into $500,000,000; that have built up the greatest industrial works in the world; that have secured world supremacy in the manufacture of iron and steel. The name of Andrew Carnegie is closely welded with these achievements, though Mr. Bridge does not give all the credit of accomplishment to the "star spangled Scotchman" and he declares he has printed no statement that has not been fully verified. This history, which will be published in The Sunday Gazette, beginning September 13, is unique. It has created a sensation, published in book form for private circulation, and The Gazette congratulates itself on its ability to give it, complete, to its readers.

The Coal Combination.

The acquisition by the Pittsburgh Coal Company of the control of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company (commonly called the river coal combination), which was exclusively announced in Saturday's Gazette, is of extraordinary interest to the people of this section, not only on account of the magnitude of the interests involved, but because it deals with a commodity which is the very backbone of our prosperity. Pennsylvania has many and varied sources of wealth, but it is the magnitude and peculiar excellence of her coal deposits which mark her as unique among states and even among nations.

Very peculiar and rather novel reasons are advanced for this purchase. The union of interests has not, like most others of the same nature, been brought about by competition — or the fear of competition — for the two companies are really noncompetitive in the pursuit of trade. The River Company has its chief outlet to consumers in the south, distributing its product from Cincinnati to the Gulf of Mexico, and supplying the great Mississippi valley for nearly 2,000 miles; while the output of the railroad, or Pittsburgh Coal Company, is burned, nearly one-third of it as fuel for locomotives and in the local trade, and the remainder largely in Canada and on and by the Great Lakes to the northwestern states.

The chief argument for consolidation is that economic working of the mines, as in all other industries, requires that miners be steadily and regularly employed. This is now impossible, for work in the river mines is steady only while there is barge navigation on the Ohio river, or to the limit of empty barges available. On the other hand, the railroad proposition involves steady running in the season when the river mines are idle and partial idleness in the winter. A great rush of business comes when the lakes are open, and half the miners are idle when they close. In fact, the Ohio river is dry in summer and the Great Lakes frozen tight in winter.

One consequence of this ill-assorted mining has been that although high wages might be paid during half the year, many of the miners would be idle during the other half, resulting in dissatisfaction, complaints and frequent strikes. It is claimed that with all the mines under one management, it will now be practicable to distribute the work more evenly over the whole district; that, although mining is at a fixed rate per ton, the outside or day labor will cost less on account of the regularity of production—that when the demand is great preparing for the freeze-up on the lakes, all or most of the mines can be turned on the shipment of lake coal, and that when the lakes are closed, or when cars are scarce, the product can be loaded into barges on the river. It is expected that in this way lower and more uniform prices can and will be made to the public for fuel and labor furnished with more continuous employment.

Pittsburgh occupies a unique position in being able to serve at different seasons the two greatest markets west of the mountains. This advantage, properly worked, should enable the consolidated company to give constant employment at the highest wages to the very best class of labor, with its resultant benefit to our mercantile interests.

In our great coal deposits we revel in richness even beyond our own comprehension; but it must not be forgotten that the chief value of this coal consists, not in the mere money it brings when sold to strangers, but in the employment it gives to myriads of workmen in our own factories and mills—and to maintain our proud position as the manufacturing center of the world. Care should be taken to so conserve and so control our fuel that nothing but coarse lump coal (passed, say, over a three-inch screen) be shipped from this region, and the nut coal and slack served to home consumers at such low prices as to give to Pittsburgh the cheapest as well as the best fuel in the world. Another advantage in this is that slack coal, while somewhat lower in heating power than lump, and therefore unprofitable for shipment, is more easily adapted to smoke consuming furnaces, and its general use will of necessity hasten the time when the use of such appliances will be universal in this district—a time which we trust is near at hand.

Relief in Sight.

The government estimates on the cotton crop, issued last week, bring us measurably within sight of the relief for which cotton manufacturers and interests on the free movement of or free contracting for export commodities have been anxiously waiting. Barring a calamitous condition of weather in the cotton belt between this moment and the full maturity of the whole crop, the supply of cotton for the uses of 1904 will vastly exceed the supply for 1903, and will be so great that the possibility of cornering it and maintaining the high prices which have prevailed is reduced to a minimum. The trouble because of the corner, or because of the shortage which made the corner an easy matter, has been of two kinds, interfering on the one hand with the productive efforts of manufacture and on the other with the making of foreign contracts for next season's supply, which are usual at this time. These contracts create international credits which are serviceable instead of cash in international exchange, and their absence this season has had an important influence on financial affairs in the United States, being in no small degree responsible for the large job of house cleaning that has been done in Wall street, which, unfortunately, spared neither the just nor the unjust. The government report does not, of course, entirely clarify the situation, but it goes a long way in that direction. Buyers of cotton for the legitimate uses of trade begin to have light enough to read the future and it will not be long before a basis will be established in this light on which the producers and consumers of the raw material can get together to do business. Then Europe's money for raw cotton will again flow this way in a natural stream, and the wheels of our own cotton mills will begin to move freely once more.

Crime Here and Abroad.

Of the prisoners in the Allegheny county jail awaiting trial more than one-half are foreign-born. Of those whose nativity is accredited to the United States a considerable number are colored and others are so recorded because they speak English and refuse to say where they were born. This is no unusual condition. It is practically the same at every term of the criminal court.

Statistics of crime indicate a larger percentage of overt acts in this country than in the countries of Europe. This would seem to contradict the analysis of the statistics of this country in which the foreign population figures so largely. And it raises several questions. First, are the countries of Europe losing their criminal population by emigration to America? Second, are acts that are rated as crimes here overlooked in Europe as offenses not to be prosecuted? Third, do police regulations in European countries do more to prevent crime than our own legal machinery? Fourth, does comparative prosperity tend to the increase of crime? Investigations that have been carried on in a desultory way indicate an affirmative answer to these four questions, of course, with qualifications.

Criminals emigrate when they can to escape punishment. The United States gets more than its fair share of this class from Europe. A good many things are not tolerated here that are looked upon complaisantly in many of the countries of Europe. Societies for the prevention of cruelty do not flourish on the continent as they do here, and in many sections it is a husband's inalienable right to beat his wife. Police regulations are more effective on "the other side." The gendarmeries are ever present. County or state police would do more than any other one thing to prevent crime among the foreigners in this country, especially uniformed police. Finally the comparative prosperity of the foreigner in this country—particularly the foreigner from southern Europe—coupled with other conditions, promotes crime. The immigrant is all too often freed from family restraint by coming here as well as from the restraint of the uniformed gendarmerie. He is more prone to spend his earnings in riotous living; his earnings will purchase more firewater, and the American brands are, as a rule, of more inflammatory quality. Add to this the crowding of these foreigners in close quarters and the natural friction of different races, [illegible] it will be easily seen the conditions are more favorable to crime than with the same elements at home.

For years the increase in crime in proportion to population in this country has attracted the attention of criminologists. They have not been so slow in suggesting remedies as the legislatures have been in applying them. Obviously there should be greater restriction of immigration. It is equally plain there should be an increase in the number of peace officers. These innovations have been rendered necessary by changed conditions. In the pioneer days they were not necessary, for then every respectable person had some time to spare to assist in enforcing the laws when infrequent crimes were committed. Now daily occupations, even if less arduous, are more exacting. The good citizen may not absent himself from mill, workshop, store or office for a day or two while he goes with a posse to run down a desperado. Men must be employed specially for that purpose who can devote their whole time to it.

Mr. Shaw's Fund.

There are but two possible explanations of the anxiety of national banks throughout the country to obtain a share of the $40,000,000 which it has been announced by the secretary of the treasury is available for deposit in case of necessity. One explanation is that they need the money and the other is that they wish the use of it for the income which it will bring them. In the case of the St. Louis banks the first explanation holds good, and they are to secure a large deposit, not so much, however, because they need it as because of the nature of the necessity, which involves the ultimate payment of $5,000,000 from the national treasury to the enterprise which the St. Louis banks have been financing. But the need of the St. Louis banks and the manner in which it is met does not establish a precedent for the deposit of a portion of the $40,000,000 in bank merely because the bank, owing to circumstances of its own creation, has urgent need of it. There is no precedent, on the other hand, for depositing money in bank just because the bank can use it profitably, and doubtless it is not intended that any such precedent will be created. The announcement of the secretary that there is money to be placed on deposit to prevent a stringency in the money market, such as is usually felt at the crop moving period, had less reference to the need of the banks than to the need of those who are served by the banks, and the distribution will be made only with reference to such needs. It happens that the need of the St. Louis banks is the expression of a public need. The banks of St. Louis have anticipated government payments on a quasi-government enterprise and at this time, when the money is needed to finance the autumn movements of the agricultural regions tributary to St. Louis, the government makes part payment of claims against itself, which are not yet fully matured, in the form of a deposit against which the treasury will later check to the proper officers of the exposition, who will simply use the checks to cancel the obligations already incurred. But the great majority of the applications for government deposits are doubtless due to the fact that in all parts of the United States the volume of business is so great that money can be used profitably. When bankers are willing, as they have been for some years, to pay interest on checking accounts they are more than willing to receive on deposit money that costs them nothing in the way of interest payments. Doubtless, however, the secretary of the treasury will find it wiser in the end to make deposits of public moneys in the customary way at the large reserve centers, to flow naturally through the usual channels of trade, than to attempt an investigation of the public needs here and there for the purpose of letting little rivulets of assistance trickle to them—or ladling out irrigation in spoonfuls from his national pool of plenty.

Louisville's Proud Boast.

Louisville has a stronger claim to be considered "the American city" than Philadelphia. The percentage of the latter's foreign-born population is 22.8; Louisville, out of a population of 204,731, has 21,427 foreign born, or 10.5 per cent. Cincinnati's foreign-born people are 17.8 per cent, Cleveland's 32.6, Pittsburgh's 26.4. Philadelphia draws most of its population from Pennsylvania, whose population is 84 per cent native born, against 97.3 per cent for Kentucky. Of Kentucky's total population, 2,147,174, there were in 1890 reported 1,885,255 born in Kentucky itself. The total native population of the state was 2,088,260. Kentucky is thus American to the core, and its busy and beautiful metropolis, American too, in every sense of that noble term.—Louisville Herald.

WHEN THE HORN BLOWS.

As you russle with adversity and plug along the road
Keeps your temper somewhat jangled out o' tune to bear the load,
An' you very of'n wonder if there'll ever come a day
When your labors will be over an' you'll have a chance to play.
Keep a jackin' up your courage, for the time will come at last
When your trials an' your troubles 'll be memories o' the past;
There's a better day a comin' when you'll dump your earthly woes
An' you'll know that you have struck it when the last
blows.

Of'ntimes you feel a swellin' in your gullet when you meet
With a millionaire a ridin' in his carriage 'long the street
An' the javelin of envy gives your soul a stinkin' cut
When you see him on the road an' you a strugglin' in the rut.
Sich a feelin' o' resentment doesn't help the case a bit,
Doesn't regulate the matter for to give your teeth a grit;
Though you haven't got his boodle nor his tailor-fitted clothes
You will be as rich as he is when the last
blows.

We are only here a waitin' sort o' killin' time until
We receive the invitation for to climb the golden hill,
An' we hadn't ort to grumble jes' because a favored few
Have a knack o' grabbin' fortune that's denied to me an' you.
Fix your eyes on the eternity we'll enter by an' by,
Life on earth ain't half a minute to the time we'll spend on high—
Try to keep the tears of trouble from a tricklin' down your nose,
For you'll holler hallelujer when the last
blows.

The Quiet Observer

BY ERASMUS WILSON.

Which would you rather have for a household pet, a rhamphorhynchus phyllurus, an ichthyosaurus quadriscissus, a pterodactylus spectabilis, a [illegible], or a [illegible]?

Dr. Holland has [illegible] and they will soon be open for inspection. Ample time will be given for you to pick and choose from this remarkable collection of rare, quaint, unique specimens of nature's handiwork.

In addition to those mentioned there are others, many others, among which the most fastidious, cultured and critical cannot fail to find something tasty and satisfying. In fact, the curator of what-is-to-be the greatest museum in the world, is digging up specimens here, there and everywhere, in the effort to meet present demands, as well as to forestall growing demands.

The craze for such creatures as these has developed very rapidly, it having been only a few years since ladies and gentlemen began wearing lizards, snakes and such for personal advancement, as well as to show they were not afraid. Sometime ladies may adopt the live, sprightly mouse as an adornment—sometime, maybe.

The early agitators of this sort of thing had much trouble in developing it into a settled craze, and many were the sharp conflicts between the pros and cons, one of the most remarkable of which was that of "The Society Upon the Stanislow," made memorable by Bret Harte. Following is his account of it, which will be read with much interest at this particular time:

I reside at Table Mountain, and my name is Truthful James;
I am not up to small deceit, or any sinful games;
And I'll tell in simple language what I know about the row
That broke up our society upon the Stanislow.

But first I would remark that it is not a proper plan
For any scientific gent to whale his fellow-man,
And, if a member don't agree with his peculiar whim,
To lay for that same member for to "put a head" on him.

Now nothing could be finer or more beautiful to see
Than the first six months' proceedings of that same society,
Till Brown of Calaveras brought a lot of fossil bones
That he found within a tunnel near the tenement of Jones.

Then Brown he read a paper, and he reconstructed there,
From those same bones, an animal that was extremely rare;
And Jones then asked the Chair for a suspension of the rules,
Till he could prove that those same bones was one of his lost mules.

Then Brown he smiled a bitter smile, and said he was at fault,
It seemed he had been trespassing on Jones' family vault;
He was a most sarcastic man, this quiet Mr. Brown,
And on several occasions he had cleaned out the town.

Now I hold it is not decent for a scientific gent
To say another is an ass,—at least, to all intent;
Nor should the individual who happens to be meant
Reply by heaving rocks at him to any great extent.

Then Abner Dean of Angels raised a point of order, when
A chunk of old red sandstone took him in the abdomen,
And he smiled a kind of sickly smile, and curled up on the floor,
And the subsequent proceedings interested him no more.

For in less time than I write it, every member did engage
In warfare with the remnants of a palæozoic age;
And the way they heaved those fossils in their anger was a sin,
Till the skull of an old mammoth caved the head of Thompson in.

And this is all I have to say of these improper games,
For I live at Table Mountain, and my name is Truthful James;
And I've told in simple language what I know about the row
That broke up our society upon the Stanislow.

Alaska's Boundary.

The Anglo-American commission to settle the Alaskan boundary is now in session in London. It is to be hoped the equities of the case are so apparent that the matter will be speedily settled, and the absurd claims of Canada be given their quietus. [illegible] Toledo Blade.

That is a valid and significant point which the American commissioners make in the Alaska case, that the British or Canadian contention has been variable, while that of the United States, as of Russia before it, has been constant and unchanging and known to all the world. Canada has at times stood by one interpretation of the treaty of 1825 and at times by another, and at yet other times has sought to discredit and all but repudiate that instrument. The United States, on the contrary, "has from the time of the cession of Alaska to the present day maintained but one interpretation of the treaty of 1825." That circumstance, upon the face of it, is most suggestive in favor of the American contention.—New York Tribune.

+ + + +

The United States has not invariably been in the right in its boundary controversies. It was not in the right in its quarrel with Mexico over the boundary of Texas. The United States has been involved in other controversies where a good deal could be said on both sides. In the Alaskan case there really is no room for dispute. The Canadian claim is one advanced years after the boundary line contended for by the Americans had been generally recognized as the correct one by everybody. The claim never would have been advanced but for the development of the Klondike region consequent upon the gold discoveries. That inspired the Canadians with an ardent desire to sever the American Alaskan strip at many points and reach the sea. That is a natural desire. Put the Americans where the Canadians are and they would feel much the same way. [illegible]

BROOKLYN MAY LOSE NAVY YARD

The General Board Recommends That Another Site Be Selected.

TOO NEAR BAD INFLUENCES

Question Taken Up by Secretary Moody and Seriously Discussed—Head of the Department Admits That Arguments Are Important.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Room 10, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 6.

It has become known at the navy department through the intense feeling it has aroused that the general board has recommended to Secretary Moody the removal of the Brooklyn navy yard to another site.

The general board is a body composed of four or five officers of high rank who hold secret sessions every month and discuss weighty problems for the advancement of the navy. This board concluded that it is incompatible with the best interest of the service that navy yards should be located in close proximity to the demoralizing influences of large cities. In following up this axiom the general board has suggested to Secretary Moody that it would be desirable to abandon the present site of the Brooklyn navy yard and remove the operating plant to some remote point along the coast.

On account of the exalted position of some of the members of the general board —Admiral Dewey is the president of it— Secretary Moody was inclined to give some weight to this recommendation. He broached the subject to one of the chiefs of the bureaus of the navy department and asked the officer in question what he thought of it. The reply that Secretary Moody received was emphatic and caused him to wonder if the general board's suggestion was to be treated seriously. He was told that it would be a monumental blunder to abandon the present Brooklyn navy yard site, and that no amount of academic theories or wordy axioms could ever convince practical naval men that it was desirable to give up that yard.

Secretary Moody has also been told that there is a disposition in Brooklyn to take away from the government the property it owns and which the navy yard occupies. It was pointed out to him that the city, some years ago, seized a valuable slip of the navy yard property at a bargain, much to the disadvantage of the government, and that the dismemberment process would continue in the future.

It is understood that this argument made some impression on Secretary Moody, as he afterward referred to it as being important.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO OPEN STATE FAIR

Great Multitude Expected in Syracuse to Greet the Chief Magistrate.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 6.—In a closed carriage and surrounded by double lines of soldiers, President Roosevelt will ride through the streets tomorrow. He comes to open the New York state fair, and before going to the grounds will review the Labor day parade from a stand in Hanover square. For his personal safety to and from the stand, while at the fair and later while viewing the parade of the National Association of Letter Carriers, the most elaborate precautions have been taken. A company of state troops, 100 policemen, special officers and secret service men will unite in making access to the president impossible.

During his rides through the streets the crowds will be kept back from the curbs and detectives will carefully watch the throngs in the immediate vicinity for suspicious characters. Windows and rooms in the vicinity of the stand in Hanover square are under constant surveillance and the stand itself has been guarded by police since its erection.

Unless the president objects the stand at the fair grounds will be surrounded by a high wire fence, completely shutting off the crowds for a space of 100 feet on each side. No one will be admitted inside this inclosure except those passed by the secret service men.

Should it be clear weather there will probably be 100,000 people at the fair grounds to greet Mr. Roosevelt. The advance guard of visitors has begun to arrive and the hotels are filled. The city has been generally decorated. Ridicule heaped on the scheme to present the president with a "beauty album," to consist of photographs of the chamber of commerce members has apparently killed it. The chamber has unofficially announced that the project has been dropped.

THROWN OUT OF BUGGY IN EXCITING RUNAWAY

W. B. Pollock of East Liverpool Badly Hurt, but His Wife Escaped.

W. B. Pollock and wife of East Liverpool, O., were thrown from a buggy in an exciting runaway across the Twenty-second street bridge yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock. Mr. Pollock was seriously hurt, but his wife luckily escaped. The horse, a spirited animal, attached to a light buggy, took fright at a street car in Forbes street and dashed across the bridge. At the South Twenty-second street end of the structure there is a curve on a steep grade and in rounding it Mr. and Mrs. Pollock were thrown out.

The woman escaped serious injury and was taken to a nearby house, suffering, however, from shock. Pollock struck the curb, sustaining numerous scalp wounds and internal injuries. He was picked up in an unconscious condition and taken to the South Side hospital. The horse was badly injured about the legs and stopped of its own accord at South Twenty-fourth street, unable to go farther.

Mr. and Mrs. Pollock were visiting in this city and had hired the rig at a local livery stable.

What St. Louis Is and Has.

St. Louis is fast becoming one of the largest commercial and manufacturing centers of the world, and has therefore much of interest to visitors aside from the coming world's fair.

It has a number of mercantile houses and manufactories ranking first in their respective lines, the name and fame of which have spread throughout civilization.

Probably none other of these will appeal so strongly to sightseers, from points both of immensity and general interest, as will the plant of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing association. When, in 1865, Mr. Adolphus Busch took charge of the concern, which was then known under the firm name of E. Anheuser & Co., it was one of the smallest of its line in this country, but under Mr. Busch's skillful guidance its business increased phenomenally. New buildings sprung up like mushrooms, but on foundations as strong as fortresses, so that now the handsome red brick buildings, trimmed with granite and white stone, present a beautiful city in themselves. From an output of 8,000 barrels in 1865 its sales increased to more than a million barrels per year in less than 30 years.

However, the keystone to the success of this great establishment was Budweiser, which on account of its rare mellowness, fine flavor and exquisite taste, immediately became a favorite among the beer drinking people at all points of the globe, and now by far exceeds in sales any other brand of bottled beer.

NO ONE WHO HAS NOT SEEN THE SURPRISING VOLUME OF BUSINESS THAT IS COMING TO

KEATING WEST-VIEW No. 2

WILL BELIEVE ANY REAL ESTATE CAN BE SOLD SO FAST.

Although next Saturday, September 12th, is date for formal opening of sale, the buying excitement already has become something unparalleled. Since the announcement that this new or second plan was in shape for market the property has been covered with people. In fact, investors are pouring in from every direction.

View of Keating Bridge at entrance to Keating West-View No. 1, showing the way first plan is building up, notwithstanding it was put on the market and entirely sold off less than seven weeks ago. If the great manifold-motor short line and wonderful installment of complete city improvements has done this for first plan in seven weeks, what do you think will happen to this second and finer plan before the snow flies?

You'd think that nearly all the buyers would be from Allegheny. But they are not. If the well-known capitalists behind this great city-building project were establishing only a small suburb, there might be a reason for not expecting to get purchasers from a distance. However, when you study the magnitude of the proposition a very different idea strikes you.

This magnificent stretch of Perrysville territory is large enough to hold 200,000 people. To make the wonderful manifold-motor electric road which the Pittsburgh Railways Company is building to it and through it pay will require a population of at least 50,000 people. If the proposition were not attractive enough to draw 50,000 residents to it, the Railways Company would never have consented to lay out the vast sum of money it will take to build and finish such a giant traction enterprise. The fact that they agreed to lay out this money is evidence enough that you will profit marvelously by getting in now and buying as many lots as you can in Keating West-View No. 2.

You may ask, "Why should I get in now in such a large territory when there will be other plans opened later?" Yes, there will be other plans opened later, but by the time these other plans are opened Keating West-View No. 1 and Keating West-View No. 2 will be built up solidly and the value of the property increased 500 to 1,000 per cent. You can see even now that this condition is coming. The first plan was put on the market and entirely sold off less than seven weeks ago, and since that time houses have sprung up all over it.

Why is this? Because investors see that the owners are spending millions of dollars for street improvements and to give the community pure germ-proof water. Also because Perrysville is more advantageously located, level, and beautiful than Squirrel Hill and has been brought by improved traction service within 27 minutes of Pittsburgh, or the corner of Fifth Avenue and Smithfield Street.

At no other time in the history of Pittsburgh has there been a property introduced with absolutely every street, traction and city improvement ready to go with it to the purchaser. Editor Story, one of the world's most practical journalists, said of Chicago in 1876, when Chicago was about to outrank Brooklyn in population, that Chicago's growth was being pushed faster by the sub-division and home-building real estate promoters than by any other factor, and that if these promoters remained honest and carried out their promises Chicago would some day go beyond New York in number of inhabitants. But to remain honest and carry out great promises the promoters must have ample capital to back up their inducements. The beauty about the Allegheny-Bellevue Land Company is that it has the ample capital and has even thus far accomplished wonders.

Lot prices range from $50 to $900.

Terms are 5 per cent. down and 2½ per cent. each month thereafter for balance. 10 per cent. discount for cash when paid within sixty days.

Premium bonds that pay 25 per cent. are given away free to purchasers. This is without exception the greatest free-gift enterprise any mortal being ever heard of. The bonds alone are an irresistible attraction. Shrewd persons are as much interested in the bonds as in the lots, and they're free. One free with each lot.

ERYTHING IS IN READINESS FOR TODAY'S CELEBRATION

ominent Speakers Secured to Deliver Addresses to Labor Day Audiences.

A RECORD-BREAKING PARADE

It Will Start Promptly at 10 O'Clock This Morning—Exercises to Be Held in Schenley Park—Twenty-Eight Events on Program of Sports.

Today will mark the fifth annual Labor day demonstration in Pittsburgh. Arrangements are completed and everything is ready for the exercises. The parade, which is to start from Duquesne way and Sixth street promptly at 10 o'clock, will present a sight seldom seen in any city. Uniforms of all styles and colors will be worn by those in line. Many unions have made an effort to be the best-attired and the indications are it will be a close contest. The cream of musical organizations in Pennsylvania has been secured to lead the marchers. Only one thing will prevent the parade being the best ever held in the city, and that is rain.

Immediately after the parade disbands at Bluff and Magee streets the paraders will go to Schenley park, where Labor day issues will be discussed by prominent orators. Among them will be W. C. Long of New York, president of the Commercial Telegraphers' union.

Another speaker is David Tobin, president of the Boot & Shoe Workers, with headquarters in Boston. Mr. Tobin arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and registered at the Griswold. John R. O'Brien of Buffalo, president of the Retail Clerks' Protective association, will be the next speaker.

One of the speakers is M. P. Carrick, general secretary of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paper Hangers, with headquarters in Indianapolis. Mr. Carrick is a Pittsburgh man, having filled several important positions in labor organizations in this city. For many years he was at the head of the local painters.

The local speakers are Attorneys William J. Brennen and J. Francis Burke, the Rev. Lawrence A. O'Connell, and the Rev. S. Edward Young.

The last important event of the day is the sports. The program contains 28 events, with valuable prizes for the victors. The sports will close the formal celebration, but several events will be held by individual unions. Every minute of the day will be occupied by those who are interested in Labor day, and that means everybody.

M. P. CARRICK,
General Secretary B. of P. D. and P. H.

COW CAUSED WRECK.

Three Spectators Seriously Injuring While Watching Wrecking Crew Clear Track.

GOSHEN, IND., Sept. 6.—A southbound Big Four passenger train was wrecked here this morning by hitting a cow. The locomotive turned over and landed half way down the embankment on its side. While the wrecking crew was clearing the track this afternoon a chain broke, the recoil hurling it into the crowd that was watching the proceedings.

Samuel Oliver received a broken thigh and is in a critical condition. Victor Kauffman, aged 13, was badly injured in both legs and Charles Ahlwine, aged 10, was seriously injured.

SEMI-CENTENNIAL OF A M'KEES ROCKS CHURCH

Mt. Calvary Evangelical church, McKees Rocks, celebrated its 50th anniversary yesterday. In the morning the Rev. G. M. Gerberding, D. D., a former pastor, preached and in the evening the Rev. D. H. Geissigner, D. D., president of the Pittsburgh synod of the Lutheran church. A paper covering the history of the church since its organization was read at the morning service by the pastor, the Rev. Robert R. Durst. The initial service was held in a private house on the South Side February 27, 1853. The membership of the church is now 145. The church property is valued at about $30,000 and is practically unincumbered.

Preached His First Sermon.

The Rev. Zimri E. Bates, pastor of the Shady Avenue Christian church, Allegheny, preached his first sermon, after resuming his former charge, yesterday morning. He was pastor of this church from 1897 to 1899 and left to accept a church in Rudolph, O., from which place he returns to Allegheny. Mr. Bates prepared for the ministry at Bethany college.

THE DEATH ROLL

William Wright Murray.

William Wright Murray, 46 years old, died at the residence of his brother, J. Weidman Murray, No. 6024 Jackson street, East End, early yesterday morning. Mr. Murray had been in Pittsburgh visiting his brother for about two months, having come here from Champaign, Ill. He was born in Lebanon, Pa., and took up railroading when quite young. For several years he was a train dispatcher for the Union Pacific railroad on the Pacific coast, and was stationed for many years at St. Louis as train dispatcher for the Missouri Pacific. About four years ago he entered the brokerage business in Champaign. Mr. Murray has been in failing health for the past year. He is survived by two brothers and one sister, J. Weidman Murray, Mrs. E. P. Ewing of Lincoln, Neb., and L. W. Murray of the Reliance Insurance Company. The body will be taken to Lebanon today for interment.

Mrs. Eliza Lockhart.

Mrs. Eliza Lockhart, aged 77 years, died Saturday morning at 6 o'clock at the home of her son, No. 836 South avenue, Allegheny, of old age. She was born in Tyrone County, Ireland, and came to this country in 1847, where she was married. Her husband died 20 years ago. The funeral services will be held at the residence of her son this afternoon at 3 p. m. The deceased was a faithful member of the Fourth U. P. church.

Mrs. Samuel McKissock.

Mrs. Margaret McKissock, wife of Samuel McKissock, died Saturday night at her home, No. 1311 Esplanade street, Allegheny, in the sixty-fifth year of her age. The deceased came to this country from Scotland and lived in Allegheny 40 years. She is survived by her husband, who at one time was a plumber, and four children, Mrs. D. M. Evans of New York, Jennie, Albert Maybon and John L. McKissock. The services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the family residence, and the interment will be at Uniondale cemetery. Mrs. McKissock for over half of her life was a member of the Sandusky Street Baptist church.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs. Catherine Wilson of New Castle, Pa., is dead, aged 62 years.

James A. Jones, one of the best-known insurance men of Michigan, is dead, aged 60 years.

Mrs. Mary Faucett died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. H. Dodd, No. 2032 Webster avenue, at the age of 71.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock of Maggie, wife of Louis Michel, who died Saturday afternoon at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Shankle, No. 404 East Lacock street, Allegheny. She was in the twenty-first year of her age.

REBEL AGAINST PARKS' PARADE

Appeal Made to Union Men to Keep Out of New York Procession.

CONFUSION IN A MEETING

Resolution Declared That the Labor Day Marchers Are to Be Led by Those Whose Friendship to Workingmen is Questioned.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, Sept. 6.

On the eve of Labor day, with emissaries searching New York and vicinity for more recruits to the parade which is to be led by Samuel J. Parks, a bombshell was exploded at the meeting of the Central Federated union. For a time the adherents of Parks were stunned and the assemblage thrown into confusion.

The cause of this was a resolution introduced by the delegate of the Clothing Cutters' union declaring that the parade tomorrow is to be led by men whose friendship to labor is questionable, and appealing to all good union men to remain out of its ranks.

The friends of Parks gained the upper hand, however. Rallying under the leadership of James Dailey of the Dock Builders, Warren of the Marine Machinists, who announced himself as a friend of the walking delegate, and Henry Farley of the Brotherhood of Painters, who was a witness at the Parks trial, they succeeded in getting the resolution laid on the table.

One objection to the parade, as it will be made up, developed today, and that was the assertion that there will be a little too much Devery in it. The independent candidate for mayor will ride in the second carriage in line, attired in a red shirt of the Housesmiths' union, a direct contrast to Parks on his white horse and with the $110 silk and gold grand marshal's sash.

"Our organization will not parade tomorrow," said William Kennelly of the Steamfitters' Helpers union. "There is, among other things, too much Devery. It is not a Labor day parade, but a political parade."

"We stay out for the same reasons," added William H. Farley of the Tile Layers, and similar testimony was given by Edward Kelly of the Electrical Workers.

WANAMAKER TO FACE LIBEL CHARGE AGAIN

Case Reopens in Beaver Next Week—Began Three Years Ago.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, PA., Sept. 6.—The libel suit of Thomas Robinson of Butler, ex-superintendent of public printing and binding, against ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker of Philadelphia, will be called for trial in Beaver on Monday, September 14.

Mr. Wanamaker, in a speech at Lykens, is alleged to have made derogatory remarks concerning Mr. Robinson in connection with the presenting of his "bird book," and when Mr. Wanamaker was making a speech in Beaver the papers in a libel suit were served. The case was set for trial in December, 1900, and after a couple of witnesses, including Mr. Wanamaker, had been called, a motion was made by the defense for a non-suit. Judge Wilson granted the motion for a non-suit and everybody considered that the end of the case.

A year or so afterwards Mr. Robinson's attorneys moved that the order of non-suit be stricken off and the case reopened, which motion Judge Wilson granted. The case was set for last spring, but owing to Mr. Wanamaker's bad health he was obliged to go to Europe.

Numerous depositions have been taken from persons who cannot be present, both from Harrisburg and Philadelphia, but one of Mr. Wanamaker's principal witnesses, Gov. Hastings, died last winter before his deposition could be taken.

Mr. Wanamaker will be represented by James Gay Gordon of Philadelphia, Charles H. Bergner of Harrisburg and Attorney Martin of Beaver Falls. A large number of state officials and others have been subpoenaed.

PERSONALS

David Tobin of Boston, president of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union, who is here to deliver an address at the Labor day celebration, when seen at the Hotel Griswold last evening said: "Our organization is meeting with trouble owing to the inroads of the American Labor union, which is inducing our members to raise complaints regarding the management of our union. Since our organization we have secured considerable advantages for the workmen. Since the first of the year fully 2,000 more shoe workers have affiliated with the organization. We do not fear the outcome of the St. Louis trouble. The St. Louis locals, in calling a convention of the organization, is to satisfy the organizers of the American Labor union, who are trying to break up our organization. I will go to St. Louis Tuesday and will be better able to learn the condition of affairs in that city."

John K. Reynolds, who has been manager of the Duquesne Gardens during the past summer, left last night for Chicago. He will fill the position of advance agent for Blanche Walsh's "Resurrection."

HITCHCOCK WAS THE INSTIGATOR

Secretary of the Interior Started the Investigation of Alleged Indian Frauds.

HE HAS ACTED PROMPTLY

Correspondence Between Him and President Garrett of the Indian Rights Association on Charges Made by Brosius is Given to the Public.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 6.—Following is the correspondence made public today between Secretary Hitchcock of the interior department and Philip C. Garrett, president of the Indian Rights association, regarding the latter's charges of fraud and injustice to the Indians. Secretary Hitchcock wrote on August 29:

I beg to state that the grave irregularities on the part of officials appointed by the government, with which you seem to have been impressed by the report made to you by Mr. Brosius have, for months past, had my personal attention, thus anticipating your courteous request that the subject may be officially investigated.

This investigation was made by me while on a visit to Indian territory in May, as the result of which certain removals from office by dismissal, and enforced resignation resulted, and upon my return here, amended rules and regulations were prepared and issued on July 10, the purpose of which was to more fully protect the Creek Indians in the matter of the sale of their land by a proper notice and the requirement of sealed bids, by which such satisfactory results have been accomplished in the matter of the sale of inherited lands in other reservations throughout the country, none of the original deeds for the sale of lands under the inherited act nor of lands of the Creek nation having been, up to that time, nor since, approved.

Receiving an Advance.

On the contrary, in the matter of the sale of inherited land under the sealed bid order, we are receiving, in many cases, from 15 per cent to 125 per cent advance over the original price tendered by the same parties for the same land, while the Creek deeds, under the old system, have all been disapproved to the number of 423 deeds, and returned with their accompanying checks, amounting to over $369,000, thus showing that, in the matter of official irregularities and the adoption of said regulations, the interests of the Indians have not been neglected by the department, as is indirectly charged by Mr. Brosius, whose part I do not care to further discuss, because the accusations therein contained are to receive a full and rigid investigation.

They have been promptly denied, and such investigation demanded by the members of the Dawes commission and Inspector Wright, who are, of course, entitled to be presumed innocent in the meantime.

This department is, and always has been more than ready and willing to accept the assistance of your association in ascertaining and rectifying any irregularities it may discover, or believe to exist, when properly presented and substantiated, and is always glad to do anything toward the betterment, in all respects, of the Indian wards of the government.

There are, however, proper and improper methods of procedure, and I think that it was not justifiable, but discourteous to me and unfair to them, to publish broadcast to the world the material gathered by Mr. Brosius, without further verification, and without his having afforded to the officials, whose reputation he attacked, any opportunity to explain what seemed to him objectionable.

The department does further maintain that its inspectors and other officials should have respect and confidence until a clear case is made against them; and the present policy of dealing with the Indians is the result of accumulated experience and is being pursued intelligently and vigorously for the Indians' best interest.

Garrett's Reply.

President Garrett replied, under date of Philadelphia, September 4:

We make no charge, up to this time, against any members of the Dawes commission, nor, I believe, does our informant, Mr. Brosius, whose allegations, you will observe, are general in their character and invite attention to a certain class of institutions with which some of them are connected, as they ought not to be if they wish to keep above suspicion, because there is too much reason to believe the companies are, some of them at least, organized in part for the express purpose of preying upon the Indians.

Nor do I think that Mr. Brosius casts any imputation upon persons in higher position. No one is more interested in clearing the skirts of appointed officials of fraud and corruption than those who appointed them, and this he sought.

I would like to make one comment on the closing passage in your letter, in which you say that "inspectors and other officials should have respect and confidence until a clear case is made against them." The inspector should be above suspicion, and where an inspector accepts the hospitality of the man he is sent to inspect, thus taking a bribe in his favor, or listens only or chiefly to one side, or favors his congressional backer in any way, he is not above suspicion. I would not, therefore, put that sentence as you do, but would say that officials should be accorded confidence as long as they are clearly honest and impartial in their investigations. A man who is subject to serious misgivings in this respect should be removed at once, no matter who is his backer, for he is no longer fit for his position.

I beg to reiterate my assurance of confidence in your administration, but think that the important subject matter of Mr. Brosius' communication is a hundred times more important that the question of the courtesies, much as I trust these.

TO PROBATE FIVE WILLS OF CASSIUS M. CLAY

Former Child Wife Claims Her Document Is the Only Genuine One.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

RICHMOND, KY., Sept. 6.—In the county court tomorrow five wills left by Gen. Cassius M. Clay are to be offered for probate. Four of the wills make his former child-wife, Dora Brock, the chief beneficiary, and one of them leaves his entire estate to Brutus J. Clay, a son.

The last will, which the attorneys of Dora Brock will claim is the legal document, leaves White Hall and the grounds, about 350 acres, to the United States government for a public park and $10,000 worth of government bonds and valuable mineral lands in Clay county to Mrs. Brock. This will is dated March, 1901. Mrs. Brock arrived tonight with her attorneys.

The other heirs claim that Gen. Clay was insane when he wrote all the wills, but will offer for probate the one leaving the property to Brutus Clay, which bears no date. Should the will of Mrs. Brock be probated the children will contest it on the grounds that Gen. Clay was adjudged to be of unsound mind. Mrs. Brock's attorneys claim he was irrational only on some subjects.

UNKNOWN CHILD WAS DROWNED

Body of Pretty Well-Dressed Girl, Aged 7 Years, Found in Allegheny River.

STEPMOTHER'S FATAL MISTAKE

Gave Child Creosote in Mistake for Castor Oil—Lawrenceville Blacksmith Killed—Other Cases at the Morgue Yesterday.

In the main channel of the Allegheny river, opposite Herrs Island, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock James Griffin and Henry Atchison of No. 3434 Bismark street, noticed the floating body of a girl, aged about 7 years, and by means of poles they took it ashore. The police were notified and later, the body being unidentified, was removed to the morgue. No one has claimed it yet.

The girl was pretty and well dressed. She had on a brown cloth coat, white and blue shirt waist and white skirt. She wore black stockings and high lace patent shoes. She had brown hair, which was caught in a pink bow, and brown eyes. She was about 7 years old. The body had not been in the water more than 10 hours.

Marie Ware, the 4-year-old adopted daughter of Mrs. Susanna Ware of No. 1408 Hunter street, Wilkinsburg, died at 12:30 o'clock yesterday morning from the effects of creosote administered by its mother in mistake for castor oil. About 9 o'clock the child complained of being ill. Mrs. Ware went to a cupboard and got what she believed was a bottle of castor oil. She gave the child a teaspoonful. The screams of the little one showed that a mistake had been made and Mrs. Ware sent for Dr. J. M. Buck. The doctor was unable to do anything to save the child and it died a few hours later. Mrs. Ware is prostrated with grief. Her husband died about eight weeks ago and the child was her only companion. The coroner investigated the case, and declared it accidental.

Alonzo Plumb, 30 years old, of Glassport, a coal miner, was struck by a train on the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railroad at Munhall, and killed, yesterday morning.

John Androse, 45 years old, of Esplen, was found dead in bed yesterday morning. Death was due to heart failure. He was a mill worker.

George C. Jacob, aged 32, a brakeman of Kanawha, W. Va., was killed instantly yesterday morning in the Edgar Thomson steel works yards, in Braddock. He is survived by his parents and two sisters in Kanawha.

While climbing over the false work of the Thirtieth street bridge at 6 o'clock last evening Phillip Mamnic, aged 33 years, a blacksmith of No. 2945 Spruce alley, fell into the Allegheny river and was drowned. His body was recovered a half hour later. His skull was found to be fractured and he had $108 in his pocket. Damnic was attempting to cross the bridge.

Coroner Jesse M. McGeary was notified yesterday morning that a mistake had been made in the identification of one of the boys killed by a train on the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago railroad Wednesday at Glen Osborne station. One boy was thought to have been Chester Harmon of Parkersburg, W. Va., but the coroner received a telegram that Harmon returned to his home Saturday night and Coroner McGeary was about to send the body to the railroad station when he received the communication. The body was taken back to the morgue.

TWO NEGROES QUARREL AND ONE SHOOTS OTHER

Fight in Boarding House Between Brothers-in-Law Will Probably End in Murder.

Arthur James was shot in the left breast yesterday morning by Jesse Simpson, his brother-in-law. James is not expected to live; Simpson is under arrest and Arthur Manyusy is held as a witness. Manyusy is also suspected by the police of having given Simpson the revolver with which he did the shooting.

The three men are negroes and live in a house on Terrace Hill, East McKeesport, kept by Simpson, with about 20 boarders in it. The stories told by Manyusy and other boarders are conflicting, but according to Manyusy there was a celebration on Saturday night and at 1:30 a. m. James pulled out a revolver and began shooting into the ceiling. Manyusy says Simpson seized Manyusy's revolver and shot James, although the police suspect that Manyusy handed the revolver to Simpson.

One bullet took effect and James fell to the floor. Simpson ran out. A physician was called, probed for the bullet and extracted it. It had entered the lung and the wound is thought to be mortal.

Policeman Harry Davenport traced Simpson to McKeesport, Wilmerding, Pittsburgh, Wilkinsburg and back to Braddock, and last night he saw his man riding on a street car. Simpson was arrested. He said he shot in self-defense. Simpson's wife, James' sister, is in St. Louis.

HOUSE WAS SET ON FIRE.

Incendiaries Used Cotton and Oil to Start Blaze—Girl Burned.

FINDLAY, O., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—During the absence of herself and daughter incendiaries attempted to destroy the residence of Mrs. W. L. Shue last night. About 11 o'clock, when her daughter returned from work, she discovered smoke issuing from the cracks in the door. As she opened it she was enveloped in flame and badly burned. She ran to the water plug screaming for help, which soon arrived and the fire was extinguished.

A stone wrapped with cotton and saturated with oil was used by the incendiaries. It was thrown through the transom, which had been pried open, into a corner in which many clothes were hanging. On each side of this building is a three-story tenement house. The daughter's condition is very critical. The motive for the crime is a mystery.

COLORED WOMAN DIED AT THE AGE OF 95

Jane Wheeler, 95 years old, colored, of Beltzhoover avenue, Mt. Washington, was found dead in bed yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sarah Scott, shortly after 9 o'clock. Old age and exhaustion are given as the cause of death. The woman was apparently in good health when she went to bed. Her daughter missed her in the morning. When she went to her room to call her the woman was lying in bed, dead.

CONDUCTOR HAD A FIT AND FELL FROM CAR

While collecting fares on his car at Arch street and North avenue, Allegheny, early last evening, Matthew Ray, aged 45 years, of West End avenue, was taken with an epileptic fit and fell from the running board of an Avalon car, striking his head upon the flagstones. He was removed to the Allegheny General hospital, where, up to a late hour last night, he had not roused from a deep slumber. He is said to be subject to such attacks. His injury is thought to be slight.

ONLY A LABORER

(Poem written for workingmen of Pittsburgh, Labor day, 1903, by Pastor S. Edward Young, Second Presbyterian church.)

Mere laborer do they call him!—And yet he is a man;
Quenchless burns his heart's hope throughout this mortal span.
Think you he sees no day-dreams, yearns never to be great,
He and the thousands like him who call not against fate?
I swear his tide of sorrow break quite as whelming o'er
As surge those of the magnate who rule from shore to shore;
His pain to him as poignant, his joy to him sublime,
He to himself important as any son of time.
The world one day must say—confess it everywhere;
We will today plead for it—then God shall hear our prayer.

Mere laborer do they call him,—And yet he is a knight,
Clad cap-a-pie in work-gear he ventures to the fight—
No tournament resplendent amidst applauding throngs,
No deed mankind will herald or poets chant in songs.
Back yonder in some cottage waits one, his lady true,
Around her precious wee folks who naught themselves can do;
He is their brave knight-errant; here is his Holy War,
To feed, to clothe, to shelter—these whom he battles for.
God speed him to the contest! God help him hard blows to bear!
We'll cheer him, love him, greet him—then God shall hear our prayer.

Mere laborer do they call him?—And yet he is a king.
What power his voting legions to polling-place might bring!
There holds he not a scepter?—that slip of paper white,
His throngs some thirty millions—each lift foot and each right.
Who dare in slightest mandate this monarch disobey
Should in compacted phalanx he all his hosts array?
Dire hour of gloom and terror, dire land engulfed in blood
If by our sloth or error his rage burst to its flood.
Lord, teach him patient wisdom: yes, we for him will care:
We'll help God just a little—then God shall hear our prayer.

INSANE MAN HID FROM POLICE IN DOG HOUSE

Had Escaped from Marshalsea—Lunatic Tried to Butt Out His Brains—Hunting for a Demented Man of Barnesville, Ohio.

Successfully evading policemen since Thursday, Harry Nuse, who escaped from the insane department of the city farm, was recognized last night on Chartiers street, Allegheny, by Lieut. Neumar. Nuse made a sudden dodge toward a fence, and by crawling and jumping managed to keep ahead of the officer until he reached a large dog kennel in a yard of a house at Chartiers and Adams streets. He crawled in and began to make all kinds of noises to try to keep the lieutenant at bay.

Nuse, however, was secured after a fight and was taken to Patrol Station No. 3, where he will be kept until this morning, when he will be sent back to the farm. His home is at No. 287 McClure avenue.

The police have been asked to find John T. Garvey of Barnesville, O., who disappeared Saturday and is now wandering about the city in a demented condition. While stopping off in this city on the return from Baltimore, Garvey's wife visited relatives on Duquesne Heights, and while there Garvey disappeared. The last seen of him he was on the way toward Pittsburgh. He is about 40 years old, 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighs about 180 pounds.

A demented man was found in Mallery's Woods, on Mt. Washington, yesterday afternoon butting his head against a large boulder, in an effort to beat out his brains. When Officer Joseph Russell approached him and placed him under arrest the man at first refused to go along, saying he wanted to die. He was taken to No. 7 Police Station, where he was placed in the padded cell. He gave his name as John James of No. 49 Eureka street.

EIGHT ARE INJURED IN COLLISION AT BUTLER

Passenger Train on Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Sideswiped by Freight Car.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BUTLER, PA., Sept. 6.—A freight car projecting from a siding over the edge of the main tracks sidewiped an incoming Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh passenger train from DuBois at 9 o'clock last night in the Butler yards and eight people were injured. They are:

John Phillip Hertel, fireman on passenger train; right arm broken, head and face cut and back bruised. His condition serious.

Mrs. Lawrence Kissinger, Butler; cheek and nose torn open, severe nervous shock. Condition serious.

Calvin Hayes, Butler; head bruised and cut.

Clifford Hayes, Butler; arm sprained.

Miss Sophia Hickey, Butler; head and face cut.

J. T. McKnerv, Butler; body bruised and face cut.

Bessie, infant child of Mrs. Helen Vernon, Butler; head cut while clasped in her mother's arms.

Miss Daisy Anthony, Mahanoy City; long gash in forehead.

Miss Anthony was coming to Butler to visit her sister, Miss Sadie Anthony, of West Jefferson street. Mrs. Kissinger and Fireman Hertel were taken to the Butler County General hospital and afterward removed to their homes. The left side of the engine cab and of one combination and two passenger coaches were ripped full of holes by the protruding freight car.

The train was running about 10 miles an hour when the accident occurred. The engine was derailed, but none of the cars left the track.

New Volunteer Headquarters Opened.

The local post of the Volunteers of America yesterday formally opened its new headquarters at No. 107 Federal street, Allegheny. ## MAD DOG SCARE DRIVES HILLTOPPERS INDOORS

Three Canines Shot by People of Allentown, Extermination Threatens Others.

Mad dogs have created a scare among the residents of the Thirty-first ward. Three canines have been shot and a posse of citizens is in search of other brutes which may show dangerous symptoms.

There is no waiting for the dog wagon. When, on Friday evening, a terrier affected by rabies ran down the main thoroughfare of the hilltop snapping at everything it passed consternation followed. Every man in the neighborhood has now appointed himself an official dog killer and extermination of unescorted, collarless canines seems probable. Children are being kept off the hilltop streets and some have petitioned a Washington avenue policeman to escort them to school.

For several days last week the people laughed at a rumor of the presence of mad dogs until on Saturday evening, when a dog owned by Emil Semmstrock of Walter avenue was discovered running at large. It had bitten a dog owned by a family in Industry street and the second dog went mad. Both were shot, but not until the two had attacked several other dogs. A third dog was shot yesterday and it is thought that a dozen or more are in danger of going mad.

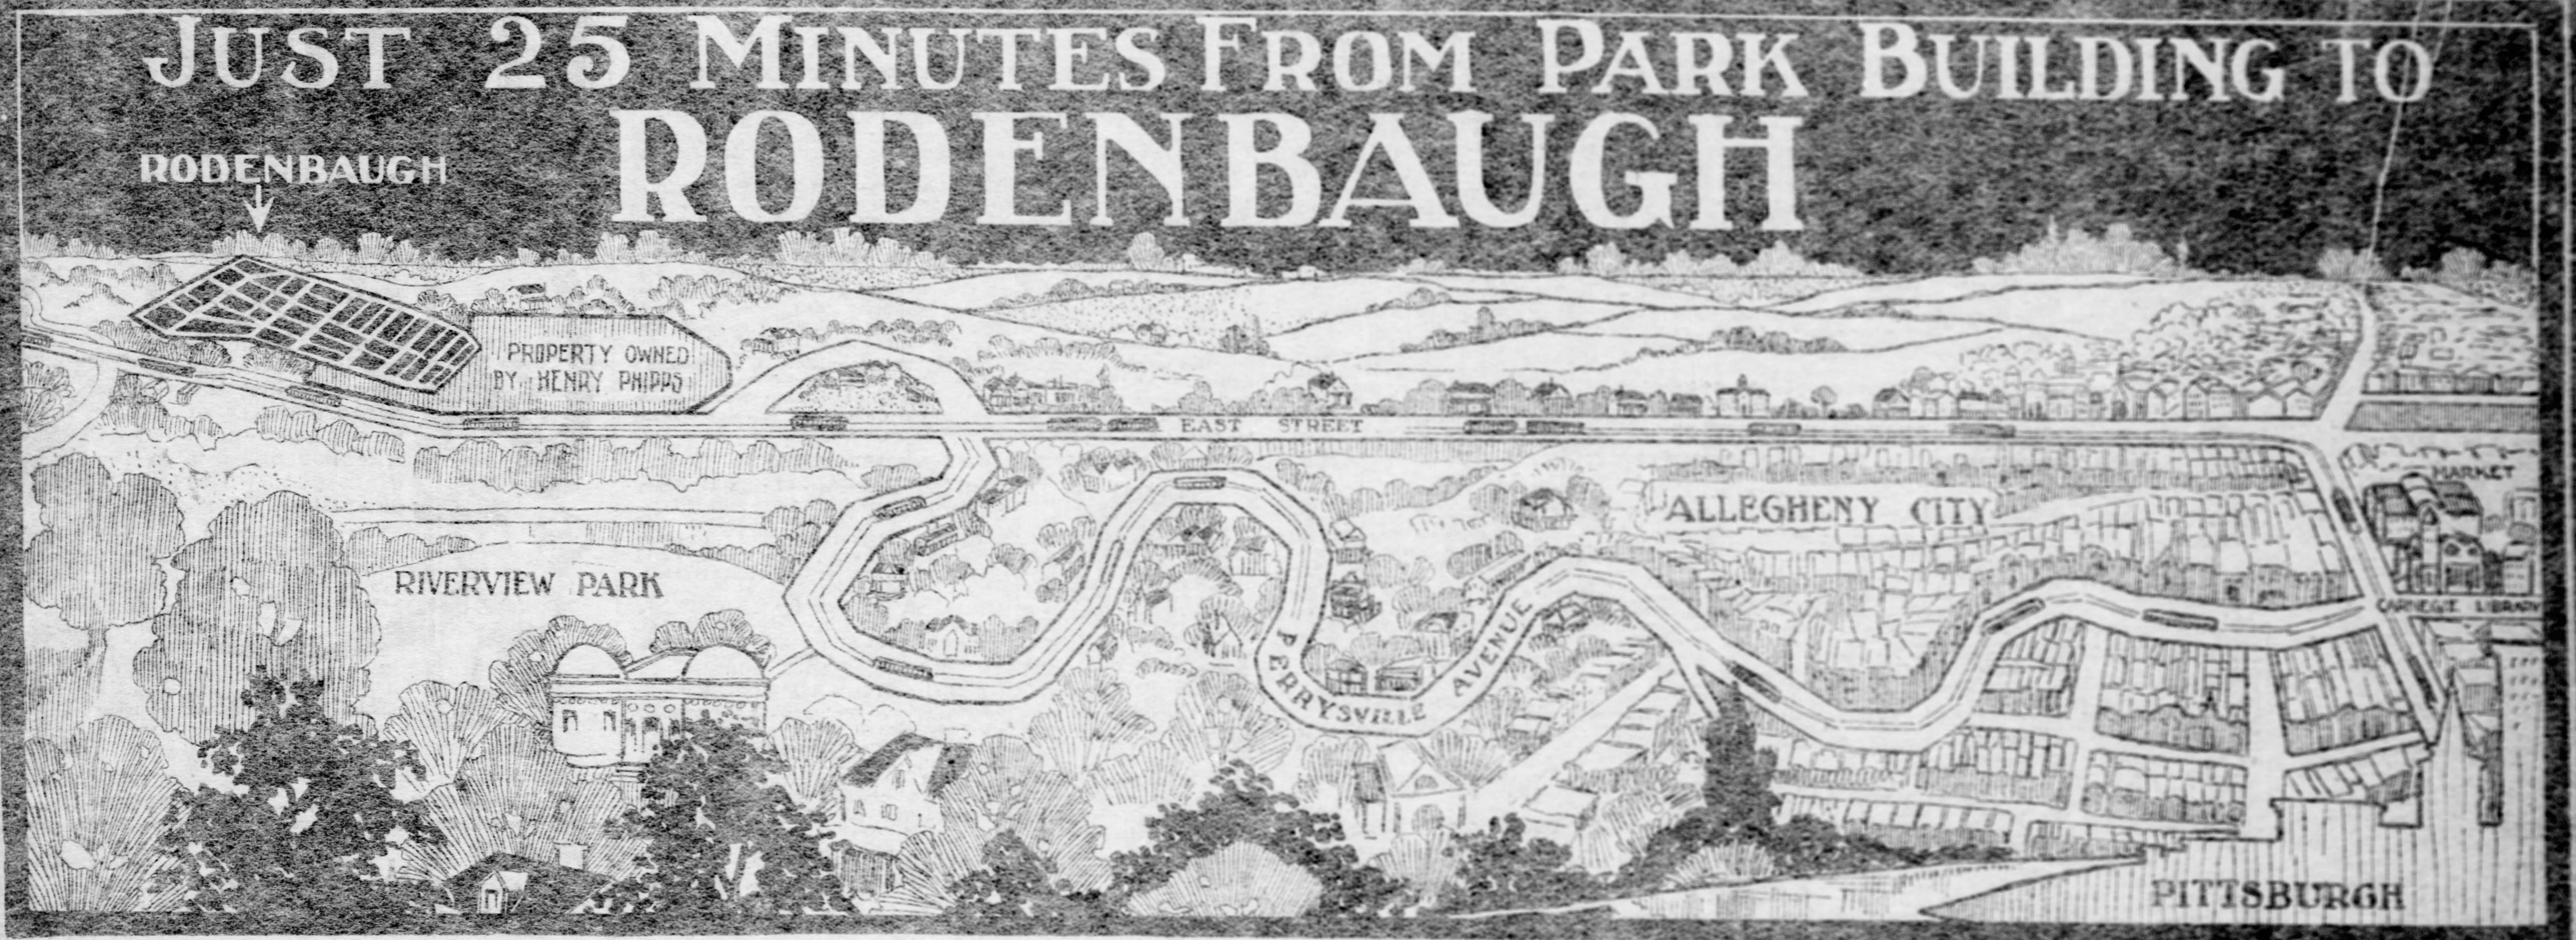
Go Out Today to See the Greatest Land Proposition Ever Offered

Think of it!---193 Large, Level Lots, Frontage of 35, 40 and 50 Feet, at Prices as Low as $100 and Upwards.

Absolutely Nothing On the Market to Equal Rodenbaugh Lots.



Rodenbaugh Place Plan of Lots, as apparent from above view, is in Ross Township, a few steps above the Perrysville Road, on the West View car line, but two squares from Perrysville and Duquesne Avenues (city limits), lying just half way between Duquesne Avenue and the popular Keating Road House at West View. The plan can be reached in 25 minutes by the West View cars, leaving 5th Avenue and Smithfield Street. The Rodenbaugh Place Plan was laid out by the Merchants Land Company, a corporation of prominent business men of Allegheny. Their sole object in placing the plan on sale is to give the homeseeker and investor a chance to buy property at real values. That is to say at prices not inflated nor multiplied. The custom heretofore has been to take hold of a land plot, lay it out into a plan and then triple the relative value of each lot--the purchaser in each and every case, paying dearly the price of the piper. Rodenbaugh Lots are therefore sold not for what they are worth in five years hence, but for what they are WORTH NOW---by that we mean their actual land value. Therefore, we have set the price of each lot in the plan at such a remarkable low figure. Prices really astonishing.

We can state also that in the Perrysville Avenue district there is no land that can stand the test of comparison with Rodenbaugh Plan. The fortunate buyers of Perrysville Avenue property, who located there within the past 5 years, fully realize the wonderful enhancement of their land purchases. Most of them have gained nearly 500% on their investment. Those who buy lots in the Rodenbaugh Plan will do equally as well in a very short time. We make the statement with confidence. We believe that within a few years Rodenbaugh Place will be annexed to the city of Allegheny.

You can make no mistake to invest in Rodenbaugh on that account. The adjoining property, on the southerly exposure, owned by Mr. Henry Phipps has already shown an enhancement of nearly one hundred per cent. Mr. Phipps, today could dispose of his holdings at a very satisfactory profit. Why does he hold it? Because he sees the value of the future.—Caution—follow the successful men of affairs—the man who knows the real estate market thoroughly. You cannot fail making handsome returns on your money. A few dollars invested at Rodenbaugh will insure you a safe return. Of course, it will not make you immensely wealthy at the start, but will pay you the largest dividends ever gotten from any investment. It's better than stock speculation for the reason that the investment will never pass any dividends.

Again we repeat the caution—be sure to see the Rodenbaugh Place Plan of Lots—compare the property and prices with other plans much farther from the city. Free Street Car Tickets on demand. For information call or address:—

New York Broker Arrested at Atlantic City for Retaining Railroad Ticket.

GREAT CROWDS AT SHORE

Number of September Visitors Have Broken All Records and Amazed Hotel Keepers—Season to Be Prolonged—Pittsburghers on Register.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Young's Ocean Pier, ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 6.

Samuel H. Jackson, who is rated as a millionaire, with offices at 49 Wall street, New York, was taken into custody at the Pennsylvania railroad station by Special Officer Edwards last night as he stepped from a train and escorted to the city jail because he had refused to surrender his ticket owing to his failure to secure a seat. Mr. Jackson changed cars at Germantown Junction, and was forced to stand up during the journey of 75 miles.

With him was Lewis Nixon, Jr., connected with the Shubert theatrical management, and Mr. Nixon accompanied the broker to the jail, where a record was asked to be made of what he claimed to be an indignity, and upon his release he stated that he would bring an action against the Pennsylvania railroad to test the right of the corporation to force payment for passage when seats are not provided.

Greatest September Crowds.

All records for September crowds were broken today and yesterday, to the amazement of the hotel keepers, who, while they looked for good business during the month, did not expect a midsummer crowd. The board walk tonight is as crowded with visitors as it was during the middle of last month, and a majority of the persons who came to the shore brought their trunks, assuring the hotel keepers that the influx was not an ordinary Labor day picnic, but was of visitors who intend to stay at least a week. Accurate figures as to the number of visitors cannot be obtained from the railroads, but an estimate of the arrivals for two days would be 25,000 persons. Hotels that were to close this week will remain open, and there is every indication that the season will be prolonged for at least two months after cold weather sets in.

Rumors of Railroad War.

There are two rumors current on the street which are "important if true." One is to the effect that the Reading and Pennsylvania railroads are to raise the fare to Atlantic City from Philadelphia from $1 75 to $2 00 and over the "Bridge" from $2 00 to $2 25. The other is that a rate war is imminent and cheap excursions are to be operated by rival roads with Atlantic City as their objective point. It is probable that both rumors are without foundation. A raise in rate between Philadelphia and Atlantic City would but add fuel to the ambition of many promoters to build a cheap trolley to the shore from the Delaware river.

Pittsburghers at the Shore.

The following Pittsburghers were the guests of The Gazette bureau today:

Henry Schoenthal, M. M. Pletcher, James Colebrook, William O'Bryon, J. M. Dodds, Mrs. Dodds, Mathilda L. Yost, M. Jacob, J. O. Webb, J. L. Kendall, Mrs. Kendall, Mrs. J. W. Mercer, Katherine E. ## TWILIGHT OFF THE TRAP.

Needles of the Davis Island Dam Will Be Put in Today.

The Twilight, which ran aground at the Davis island trap in endeavoring to get the Little Fred off, returned to the harbor yesterday afternoon after getting loose. She is none the worse for her experience. The Little Fred is fixed for a stay in the trap. Barges have been placed on each side of her so that the low water will not put her in a bad position.

The needles in the Davis island dam will be put in today, and the water in the harbor will be carefully husbanded. The upper Ohio river has fallen rapidly, but will slowly rise a little after the dam has been up a couple of days. Many pool boats were locked through the dam yesterday.

Arrivals.

Columbia, Demaine, Morgantown.

Departures.

I. C. Woodward, Williams, Morgantown.

News of the Rivers.

The stage of water at Davis island dam at 6 o'clock last night was 3.5 feet, and the river was falling.

The excursion boats had exceptionally big crowds on the Sunday excursions yesterday. The season will close soon and many took the opportunity of getting a last good ride for this year.

Many towboats which left on the last rises are returning with tows of empties. The Pacific No. 2 passed Marietta yesterday, and the Charlie Brown passed Wheeling. They will be unable to get into the harbor on account of the low water.

Fatal Fall from Bridge.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Lake C. Taggart, a Chesapeake & Ohio operator, was sitting on the hand rail of a small bridge near Hinton when he lost his balance and fell to the rocks below. Death was instantaneous, his neck being broken. Taggart lived at Hinton and was 32 years old.

COURT ISSUES ORDER AT NIGHT TO STOP REMOVAL OF COLLEGE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENVILLE, PA., Sept. 6.—Judge Samuel H. Miller of the common pleas court of Mercer county last night at 10 o'clock granted a preliminary injunction restraining the trustees or any others from removing the property of Thiel college from Greenville. Twenty-five of the most prominent business and professional men of the town signed the bond that was given the court.

Prof. W. H. Zuber, who holds the chair of science in Thiel, came here last week ostensibly for the purpose of removing his household goods to Greensburg, but in reality he was sent by the board of trustees to superintend the packing and removing of everything belonging to the college. All the furniture and fixtures, including a pipe organ, four pianos, 6,000 books, scientific apparatus, desks and typewriters were being prepared for shipment. A large furniture car was engaged from the Pennsylvania company and shipment was scheduled for Wednesday.

The college is advertised to open at Greensburg on Thursday and unless that town can supply the deficiency the prospective students will be greeted by bare class rooms. The resignation of Dr. J. C. Kunyman, the prime mover in the removal, from the presidency has caused a sensation in the Pittsburgh synod. It has left the college and faction advocating removal without a head.

SUITS FOR DOCTORING FOODS AND DRINKS

Allegheny County Dealers Use Embalming Fluids in Milk. Dye Used in Preserves.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, Sept. 6.—Analysis by the state chemists of a large number of samples of beer taken recently in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and other large cities of the state show that much of it contains benzoic acid and other deleterious preservatives. Four of the samples are reported by the chemists to be preserved with salicylic acid. One of these samples was procured in Wilkesbarre and was branded as "brewed from choice hops and malt." The other three samples were secured in Philadelphia.

State Dairy and Food Commissioner Warren has ordered suits to be brought against the dealers in this "doctored" beer. Dr. Warren has ordered suits to be brought against six Allegheny county milk dealers for "doctoring" their milk with embalming fluid and coloring matter. One milk sample taken at Freeport shows that it contained formaldhyde. Samples of strawberry preserves taken at Punxsutawney shows that it contained some strawberry seeds, but was composed mainly of coal tar, dyes, starch and cheap glucose.

A soft drink, which has an extensive sale in Fayette and other Western Pennsylvania counties is shown by analysis to be loaded with sodium salicylate and aniline dye. Eight samples of Hamburg steak and sausage bought by agents in Erie and Butler counties are reported by the chemists to be "doctored" with drugs to preserve them and also aniline dyes.

BAD FREIGHT WRECK.

One Train Crashes Into Another Standing Still—Brakeman Will Die.

ALTOONA, PA., Sept. 6.—One of the worst wrecks on the middle division of the Pennsylvania railroad in years occurred last night at 11:20 o'clock at Ryde, 54 miles east of here. One eastbound freight train ran into another and 40 cars were scattered over the tracks with their contents.

Three men were injured: Brakeman Maywalt of Duncannon, leg crushed, amputated, body bruised; Engineer Buck of Harrisburg, cut and bruised; Fireman Welsh of Harrisburg, cut and bruised.

The two trains were following each other closely. From all accounts, the first train stopped for water and the second, going rapidly, smashed into the rear. Engineer Buck and Fireman Welsh remained on their engine, and their escape from death was miraculous, as the wrecked cars were piled all around the wrecked engine.

Brakeman Maywalt was caught between two steel cars and his leg crushed. He may not recover. All of the passenger trains were from four to nine hours late, having to run over the Philadelphia & Erie and the Tyrone divisions. The property loss will aggregate over $100,000.

Lawrence Fair This Week.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—The Lawrence county fair opens at Cascade park tomorrow and continues throughout the week. A feature will be the Farmers' Institute on Thursday. It will be under the auspices of the state agricultural department, which will supply speakers. Samuel McCreary is president and Lafayette Baldwin secretary of the institute. Prof. H. A. Surface, state economic zoologist, will make an address. The bench show will be under the auspices of the American Kennel club and the prizes will be awarded by W. S. Bell of Pittsburgh.

MONASTERY AT SCRANTON.

Supersedes One Here as Noviliate of Passionist Order of United States.

SCRANTON, PA., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—The cornerstone of St. Anne's Passionist monastery was laid here today by the Right Rev. Bishop Hoban of Scranton, in the presence of 4,000 persons. There was a large attendance of dignitaries of the church, including the Very Rev. Father Stephen of West Hoboken, Father Fidelis of Pittsburgh; Monsignors Nagle of Wilkesbarre, Hodobay of the Greek church, and Coffey of Carbondale.

The new monastery, which will be built at the cost of $100,000, will be the novitiate of the order for the United States. It will occupy a commanding position on an eminence called the Round Woods, and the grounds consist of 11 acres, constituting one of the most attractive sites in West Scranton. It supersedes the monastery in Pittsburgh.

Decorated Zouaves' Graves.

GETTYSBURG, PA., Sept. 6.—At the formal exercises of the veterans of the Third army corps of New York, which took place this afternoon at the Second Fire Zouave monument, the addresses were made by Capt. Matthew Stewart and William O. O'Hearn, both of New York. On their return to town the graves of the New York section in the national cemetery were decorated.

WORKMEN FATALLY SCALDED IN PIT

Steam Separator Exploded While They Were Making Repairs—Two Slightly Hurt.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 6.—Two men were fatally and two seriously hurt in an explosion of a steam separator at the Bessemer plant of the Republic Iron and Steel Company this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The fatally injured are:

Peter O'Hara, millwright, 21 years old, face, arms and legs frightfully burned.

James Matthews, master mechanic, face and arms and body burned.

The seriously injured are:

Elmer Powell, face and hands burned.

John Elliott, machinist, burned on the face and hands.

The men had gone into a pit under the separator to make some repairs. They were working with one of the valves when the explosion came. The valve blew off and all four men were caught in the cloud of steam and gas. It was some time before the men could be rescued by their fellow workers. O'Hara and Matthews are both expected to die before morning.

BAGGAGEMEN'S WAGES ARE TO BE REVISED

LANCASTER, PA., Sept. 6.—At a meeting held here today Robert P. Nell, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Freight and Baggagemen of America, and John T. Waize and John P. Durkee of Baltimore arranged for a conference with the Pennsylvania railroad authorities respecting a new schedule of wages and conditions for the baggagemen. The schedule calls for an equalization of conditions over the entire Pennsylvania system.

Miss Agnes Miller, of Chicago, speaks to young women about dangers of the Menstrual Period—how to avoid pain and suffering and remove the cause by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"TO YOUNG WOMEN:—I suffered for six years with dysmenorrhea (painful periods), so much so that I dreaded every month, as I knew it meant three or four days of intense pain. The doctor said this was due to an inflamed condition of the uterine appendages caused by repeated and neglected colds.

"If young girls only realized how dangerous it is to take cold at this critical time, much suffering would be spared them. Thank God for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that was the only medicine which helped me any. Within three weeks after I started to take it, I noticed a marked improvement in my general health, and at the time of my next monthly period the pain had diminished considerably. I kept up the treatment, and was cured a month later. I am like another person since. I am in perfect health, my eyes are brighter, I have added 12 pounds to my weight, my color is good, and I feel light and happy."—MISS AGNES MILLER, 26 Potomac Ave., Chicago, Ill.

The monthly sickness reflects the condition of a women's health. Anything unusual at that time should have prompt and proper attention. Fifty thousand letters from women prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regulates menstruation and makes those periods painless.

READ WHAT MISS LINDBECK SAYS:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has greatly benefitted me. I will tell you how I suffered. My trouble was painful menstruation. I felt as each month went by that I was getting worse. I had severe bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen.

"A friend advised me to try Mrs. Pinkham's medicine. I did so and am now free from all pain during my periods."—JESSIE C. LINDBECK, 1201 6th Street, Rockford, Ill.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—While the Pittsburgh ball team was on its way from the west side grounds this afternoon Manager Fred Clarke told his trusty fellow Pirates that inasmuch as the team had to catch a train for Pittsburgh at 5:30 o'clock in order to be home for tomorrow' morning's game, the game would have to be short. "I'll give you just an hour and a half to clean up this bunch," Clarke told the trusties, "and then we must hurry away."

The trusties took five minutes longer than the allotted time to do the job, but they did it in such a satisfactory manner to Clarke, that he found no complaint with them. The Pittsburghs really did not need the game in the column above marked "W." but they hate to get a defeat at the hands of Selee's Chicago team. So, they just got enough hits off Weimer, mixing them up at the same time with the Microbe errors, to win, 5 to 1. Then they tore for the eastbound train along with the Chicagoes and the battle will be renewed tomorrow in Pittsburgh in a double header.

The elongated Phillippe was in the box for the Pittsburghs, and, although he acted as lazy as a returned vacationer, he held the poor locals in the palm of his hand all through the nine innings. The Microbes could scrape together but three lonesome hits, the one by Evers in the second inning, being responsible for the only tally Chicago scored. Phillippe's only mistake, a wild pitch, helped out in the run making, for it sent Kling to second base, whence he scored when Evers planted one out to right.

Weimer did some nice work, but after his support had got him into several tight places he could not pitch himself out of them and as a result the Pittsburgh runs came in bunches. "Jocko" Menefee was undoubtedly the hit of the show. Umpire Johnstone, who was to have acted as umpire, did not appear, probably being misinformed as to the starting time of the game, which was 3 o'clock, so Menefee and Catcher Smith of the Pittsburgh team were put in to judge the plays. Menefee got all the hard ones to decide and the way in which he carried out his ideas of what an umpire should be like, grated severely on the crowd.

Menefee's finish with the bleacherites came in the fifth inning, during which painful session Hans Wagner, the human furniture van, had been moved around to third base by some wild-eyed work on the part of the Microbes. The local infield was playing in close to nip Wagner at the plate should the ball be hit short. It was hit short to Evers and a pretty throw to Kling appeared to seal Wagner's fate. Kling stuck his big mit deep into the dirt about the plate effectively blocking Wagner's slide, but "Jocko" called the big fellow safe. This raised a storm of disapproval from the Chicagoes, and the Chicago following and a long argument resulted. Of course Menefee did not change his decision. After that the Microbes seemed to lose heart and Phillippe pitched faster ball than ever, his speed and curves being an absolute mystery to Selee's bunch.

A base on balls, a batsman hit and a bad fumble by Raub, along with a couple of singles netted the Pirates three runs in the seventh inning and made a hopeless case look decidedly worse. After the game the crowd kept up its nagging at Menefee and so exasperated the pitcher that he made a defiant speech to his tormentors, offering to fight them singly or in groups, but his challenge met with chilling silence. The score:

PHILLIPS POUNDED.

The Allenport Pitcher Was Easy for Cardinals.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 6.—St. Louis had no trouble in winning today's game from Cincinnati. Phillips was taken out of the box in the fifth inning, and replaced by Suthoff, who did not fare much better. Hackett's delivery was a puzzle and if it had not been for errors at critical times, he would have scored a shut out. Attendance, 5,865. Score:

BOSTON TOOK GAME.

Contest Was Played on Rocky Point Grounds.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 6.—A large crowd witnessed a clean cut championship game between the Boston and Philadelphia Nationals at Rocky Point today. It was a pitchers' battle with Willis having slightly better control than McFetridge. Cooley's batting, the fielding of Carney, Hallman and McCreery and the all round work of Zimmer were features. ## LEAGUE HEADQUARTERS MAY BE LOCATED HERE

There Is a Movement on Foot Favoring the Change and It Will Likely Be Successful.

When the club owners of the National league get together in New York in December to hold their annual meeting and re-elect Harry Pulliam president of their organization—and there is little doubt on this question, as the Pirates' ex-secretary has been the most successful leader the league has ever known, a strong effort will be made to have the league headquarters transferred from New York to this city.

This movement which has for its leader none other than the president o fthe league, may cause a row, but Pulliam is sure to have enough backers to push the thing through. It it contended that Pittsburgh is a much more central point than New York, and that with the offices located in this city it would be much easier for the president to reach any city in the league circuit than he can from New York. Another strong point is that it is much easier to get news out of Pittsburgh than from the Metropolis, also that more attention is given to baseball here than in the big town, that is by the newspapers, and these form a better distributing agency than even the telegraph wires.

It is likely that the move to transfer the headquarters to this city will meet with opposition, as John T. Brush, and one or two other insist that New York is the proper place, but this opposition will not be strong enough to head off the plan, as all the western clubs owners are said to favor it and they will have the support of the owners of the Philadelphia club. While Pulliam's first thought is the good of the league, yet he has another object and that is to get back to Pittsburgh, where he knows people and is known by them. Harry finds New York is not exactly to his liking as a home place, and he longs to get back to the Smoky City where he can find rest and friends.

Another strong argument in favor of the change is that it would cost much less money to run the headquarters here than it does in New York. It is also pointed out that Nick Young ran the league for many years from Washington, and at a much less cost than it takes now.

PITTSBURGHERS WILL PLAY.

Two Cricket Experts Chosen for Team to Meet a Strong Chicago Eleven.

Friday and Saturday of this week a team made up of players from St. Louis, Cleveland, Detroit and Pittsburgh will play the Wanderers team of Chicago in that city. The players from this city will be George McPherson and F. C. Taylor.

The Wanderers team is considered the strongest in the west, but they were defeated by the Pittsburghers in the recent tournament held in Chicago. An English team, mostly of the Kent county eleven, sailed from the other side on the 9th. They will play the team of Philadelphia gentlemen (that made such a good showing in England the past summer, (All-Philadelphia), Twenty-two colts of Philadelphia, Baltimore, and probably one game in New York. It is a pity sufficient financial support is not at present in sight to bring the English team here.

BEATEN BY BEAVER.

Greenwood A. C. Was Not Quite Fast Enough.

At Island park yesterday afternoon the Beaver A. C. defeated the Greenwood A. C. in a one-sided game by a score of 17 to 1, after the Greenwood boys had won their turn to play Beaver by defeating Riverside A. C. in the first game of the afternoon. The Beavers started right off the reel and knocked Hilliard off the rubber, who was succeeded by "Lefty" Boyle, who pitched a very neat finish. Donlay did the twirling for Beaver and held the Greenwoods to three hits. Roll's fielding was a feature. Score:

THE WELLSVILLE ELEVEN.

Ohio Town Is to Have Strong Football Team.

WELLSVILLE, O., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Wellsville Athletic association will probably have the best football eleven in this section of the country the coming season. The association has 20 men from which to chose an eleven, and men in the organization have played with the best teams in the country. The majority of them are engineers on the Cleveland & Pittsburgh, and got their early training at college.

A meeting of the association was held Thursday and the following officers elected: Henry Blackburn, chairman; Edward Harrigan, secretary; Charles McGregor, manager. The meeting was enthusiastic. Among the men who will be seen on the team are O'Brien of Western Reserve, Peters of W. and J., Sharp of Yale, Humbert of Yale, Ohlinger and Brennen of Case, Cribbs, another college man, and Kane of W. Va. university. All of these men have made reputations on the gridiron. The team has already commenced to practice, and will be ready for a game in a short time. Nothing but the best teams will be secured, and lovers of football will see some fine exhibitions.

NEW CASTLE PLAYER MAY DIE FROM BLOW

Walter Crum.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Walter Crum, the local professional ball player who is now lying at the point of death at St. Joe, Mo., from the effects of being struck on the head by a pitched ball, is widely known throughout this part of the state, where he played for the past four years as an amateur.

Early last winter he was signed by the Kansas City management upon the recommendation of Linc Lowe of this city, who recently accepted the management of the Denver team, after being compelled to retire from the diamond this summer after a brilliant career of 15 years, on account of a permanent injury to his knee. Crum was farmed by Kansas City to St. Joe, where he has been covering left field in a phenomenal manner. He is very speedy in the field and is also strong in his stick work. For several seasons Crum played with local amateur teams and has appeared in almost every city in this vicinity.

His father, Assistant Health Officer James Crum, left last night for his son's bedside, in response to a telegram telling of his critical condition.

FIELD CRICKET TEAM DEFEATS CLEVELAND

Pittsburgh Players Put Up a Clever Game and Won Contest by Nice Margin.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CLEVELAND, Sept. 6.—A cricket match was played here yesterday between Cleveland and Pittsburgh teams, in which the latter won by eight runs. Although the batting was not of a brilliant kind, some good cricket was shown by both teams. The scores were small owing to the pitch being dead and soft which made it a bowlers' wicket. The visitors were banqueted after the game. The scores:

FOUR FIERCE FIGHTS.

Saturday Night Entertainments Result in Much Loss of Blood.

Philip Pryn had his skull crushed in and will probably die, and William Allen and Issac Turner are in jail. They are negroes, and, with a number of others, had a drinking bout, which broke up in a fight, in a house at Ambridge Saturday night.

Mike Palvolitch, a Slav, of Hanover street, Allegheny, attended a christening in a nearby house Saturday night. In the usual fight Mike had his skull fractured with a beer bottle. Mike Despree, John Georgish, Mike Mohallo and Thomas Chamis were arrested.

Herbert Frost of No. 26 South Thirtieth street had his arm broken yesterday morning while disputing with Charles Trolowitch and John Stenowitch over a jug of liquor. All three were arrested.

Albert Goer, colored, of No. 11 Mitchell street was slashed in the face with a razor early yesterday morning in front of his home by John Bass, also colored. Bass has not been captured.

BOY WITH BASEBALL BAT HAS HIS JAW BROKEN

Christopher Rentz, 49 years old, of No. 427 Selma street, was arrested last night for attacking Adam, the 12-year-old son of Mrs. Hannah Zerninger, who keeps house for Rentz. He is quite a wealthy man and owns the house. Mrs. Zerninger gets the house rent free for boarding Rentz and his mother. They had a quarrel last night and it is alleged that Adam attempted to strike Rentz with a baseball bat. Rentz defended himself and struck the boy, forcing him against the sink and breaking his jaw in two places.

Two Deaths from Smallpox.

John Harris, colored, 39 years old and married, of No. 3210 Mulberry alley, and Robert Holmes, 3 years old, of Jewell street, died of smallpox at the Municipal hospital yesterday. The new cases reported were: James Markham, No. 3500 Carnegie street; Andrew Mangold, No. 3435 Denny street; Joseph Moon, No. 29 Thirty-ninth street; Robert Dickerson, No. 373 Thirty-third street; Anthony Shoemaker, No. 3638 Mifflin street; Henry Hughes, No. 221 Grant boulevard, and William Ford, Jones alley and Griffin street.

THE GERMAN KAISER DISLIKES THE AUTO

Accident to Prince Henry the Reason for His Opposing the Destance Races.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BERLIN, Sept. 6.—The racing committee of the German Automobile club is reported to have had considerable difficulty in obtaining the kaiser's permission for the coming international long distance automobile races. The kaiser, who has never been very enthusiastic over automobiles, probably because his crippled arm prevents him from becoming an expert chauffeur, has ever since Prince Eitel's narrow escape from serious injury been very much against these modern vehicles, and although the prince has absolutely recovered from his injury, the kaiser has not allowed him to use his automobile again.

The accident happened to Prince Eitel when he, accompanied by two student friends and a chauffeur, was racing up a steep hill near Bonn, where he is studying. When almost at the top of the hill the automobile suddenly stopped, ran backward down the hill at a terrific speed, left the road, fell into a ditch and was overturned. The prince jumped off just in time to escape with a few bruises. His companions were thrown out, but their fall was broken by the dence underbrush and none of them was seriously injured.

That the kaiser, though evidently very reluctant, consented to the races is said to be due to the persuasion of Prince Henry, who is one of the most enthusiastic automobilists in the country.

FAMOUS OLD TEAM.

Scottdale Nine May Be Brought Together Once More.

MONESSEN, PA., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—An effort is being made by Scottdale people to try and bring the famous Scottdale Baseball club of 1885 together in that city for a game with the team representing the town this season, and the chances are favorable. Will L. Leamon this week received a letter from A. J. Geyer, one of the old team and manager of the Scottdale opera house, asking what the chances are for getting the old team together again.

Three of this famous team are citizens of Monessen. They are Jock Menefee, now with Chicago, ex-Mayor Harry E. Rinehart and W. L. Leamon. The others are scattered over Western Pennsylvania. Scottdale people look back with pride at the old team's record. The team went through the season with 12 men. The team's record for the season was 78 games won and 7 lost. Of the seven lost four were played before the team was regularly organized and the other three were won by the "Scotts" of Pittsburgh, the "Drummers" of Erie and Jamestown, N. Y. Erie defeated them with Milbee, one of Scottdale's pitchers in the box.

In 1890 the team broke up and the players drifted into the minor leagues. Jock Menefee going to Erie with Frank Boyd; Charlie Moore and Frank Hagan to Dunkirk, N. Y., Harry Rinehart to Easton, and Jake Milbee, Bill Smink and Bill Leamon to McKeesport. A reunion will be held at the close of the season.

Are Proud of Hickey's Team.

The Winter A. C. will play at Millvale today and will bring a strong team to meet the team of that place. To say that the people of Millvale are proud of their team after last Saturday's struggle is putting it mild. Moren will be on the rubber for Millvale.

LAWRENCEVILLE POLICE RAID EIGHT HOUSES

Lawrenceville police raided several houses yesterday and arrested 12 persons charged with keeping disorderly houses, two with illegal liquor selling and 10 with being visitors. The places raided were: No. 3625 Spruce alley, West Huston and Johanna Farcer and three visitors; No. 1 Thirty-first street, William Hill and one visitor; house on Jones avenue, Sallie Lavender and two visitors; house in Stockton avenue, Bessie McManus and two visitors; No. 3228 Mulberry alley, Peter McCabe and John Fletcher; No. 3203 Mulberry alley, Emma Mosley and six others; No. 12 Kenney alley, Dennis and Mary Sullivan; No. 228 Jones avenue, Mary McLaughlin. The last two places were raided on warrants charging illegal liquor selling.

MRS. CARRIE NATION IS IMITATED BY A NEGRO MAN

Trying to imitate Carrie Nation, William Palmer, colored, early yesterday morning attempted to smash the house at No. 4801 Penn avenue by demolishing furniture and household goods with an axe. The inmates called Policeman James Burns, who arrested the man and three women in the house. Yesterday morning Palmer said that he wanted to emulate Mrs. Nation and he was fined $25 and costs, while the women were discharged.

HAPPENINGS OF A DAY.

—John Murray of No. 3818 Jane street was arrested yesterday charged with selling liquor without a license.

—Charles Allen of No. 1822 Sarah street was captured in a crap game in South Seventeenth street yesterday.

—W. E. Christy, a negro of No. 428 Boyle street, Allegheny, shot himself in the wrist yesterday while handling a revolver at Seventh avenue and the Grant boulevard.

—William Wolfe's house, Maple street, Mt. Washington, was entered while the family was out of town and a small amount of silverware taken. The theft is believed to be the work of boys.

—J. M. Butler and James Reilly were arrested at Short and Water streets yesterday while holding a loud argument. Reilly accused Butler of robbing him. Butler was searched and $29 was found in his shoe, which Reilly said was the amount of his loss.

All the News and Lots of High-Class Literary Features in Sunday's Gazette

Whoever opened The Sunday Gazette yesterday uncovered as fine an assortment of reading as it ever fell to the lot of one to peruse. From the first page to the last there was something to delight in, startling news, interesting miscellany, beautiful pictures, speaking headlines, everything that goes to make up the perfect modern newspaper. The beauty of it was there was not a line in yesterday's big paper which could not be read by the most fastidious, the most modest, the most exacting, whether relating to the subjects treated of or the manner of their treatment.

There was not a thing of moment in the local field that the columns of The Sunday Gazette did not cover adequately; in whatever quarter of the globe a news item worth printing happened it was found on some page of The Gazette. The threatened war in Turkey, Peary's proposed trip to the north pole, the program for the local Labor day celebration, every local or world happening was found chronicled in The Gazette.

It needs only a casual glance at the paper to prove The Gazette's contention that it has the best edited news columns, the best written, meaty, straight-out-from-the-shoulder editorials, the most complete sporting page and departments that are high class in every way.

As for the special articles, where could one find a more interesting one than in The Gazette? The account of the manufacture of wall paper at New Brighton, an industry of which comparatively few Pittsburghers know; the story of the new pope and his family of brothers and sisters [illegible]

A History That Is a Revelation.

"To write a conventional history from the official records of the company, with the aid of the company's press agent and under the guidance of an official censor, was a thing any journalistic fledgling could do. To dig into the secrets of the great corporation, to expose its enormous profits, reveal its peculiar business methods, its ways of heading off competitors, its internal strife, to get its first annual reports and even its later balance sheets, and to do all this openly and without a bribe or the betrayal of a confidence, to involve no employe in a covert act or breach of faith—this was a task of no small difficulty."

The Humbug of Greatness

"The humbug of greatness is so grotesque in the careers of those we know that it makes one wonder at the accidents which happen to men—accidents which elevate mediocrity and the commonplace to Olympian heights.

"And so, regarding it as a 'most hazardous enterprise,' Andrew Carnegie found himself fortuitously and complainingly thrust upon a road which was to lead him to a fortune of $250,000,000."

Not Submitted to the Official Censor

"I was notified that I must agree to submit my manuscript to the usual Carnegie revision before I could count on any assistance from the present officers of the company.

"Had the official representatives of the Carnegie Company revised this story, it is certain that many of the statements it contains would never have seen the light of day. More than once the company has accepted a large monetary loss rather than disclose its secrets in court.

"I have not hesitated to use personal letters and private documents. Whenever an interesting fact has come to my knowledge, properly authenticated, I have used it without regard to its implications. Yet I have stated nothing that cannot be verified."

Be Successful "Somehow!"

"The men who were instrumental in building up this great business were, originally at least, none of them philanthropists. There was hardly a step in their progress which had not the impulse of unqualified selfishness; and if, in the light of retrospection, some of their actions seem inconsistent with a book morality, it must be remembered that in the fight for industrial life, as in that earlier struggle for physical existence, the victory is not to the gentle and the tender-hearted, but to the others. No great business has yet been built on the beatitudes; and it is not all cynicism that condenses a negative decalogue into a positive exhortation to be successful—'somehow!'"

A Great Epic Story

IN his History of the Carnegie Steel Company Mr. Bridge has, unconsciously, perhaps, given to the world a great epic story. The simple narration of the facts revealed by his patient delving into hidden places makes a story beside which the wildest flights of romance seem tame and prosaic.

The history covers a period of forty years, during which a business valued at $4,800 became worth nearly five hundred million dollars. And now for the first time the implacable hand of the fearless historian draws aside the carefully woven veil that has long concealed the Titanic warfare and internecine strife involved in the swift evolution of this industrial giant.

A Dedication Most Significant.

An Inside Review of Its Humble Origin and Impressive Growth

To recall their forgotten services this history of a great business is dedicated to the memory of the men who founded it, saved it from early disaster and won its first successes:

|---|---|
| Andrew Kloman | David McCandless |
| William Coleman | Thos. Morrison Carnegie. |
| William R. Jones | William P. Shinn |
| David A. Stewart | Henry M. Curry. |

"Andy" Drove the Band Wagon

"One closely associated with the group, being asked to define the functions of the various partners in the Edgar Thomson Steel Company, recently made the following trite comparison:

"'Shinn bossed the show; McCandless lent it dignity and standing; Phipps took in pennies at the gate; Tom Carnegie kept everybody in a good humor, with Dave Stewart as his understudy.' 'And Andrew Carnegie?' he was asked. 'Oh, Andy looked after the advertising and drove the band wagon!' was the ready reply."

"The Seats of the Mighty."

"Never was band wagon driven with such skill. The box of Carnegie's chariot became the 'seats of the mighty.' Herbert Spencer's acquaintance was made on board a transatlantic liner, as was that of sundry British peers; and the visits of these personages to the Pittsburgh works were reported in a thousand newspapers from Maine to California and from Land's End to John O'Groat's.

"And so a politico-social campaign went on hand in hand with the rail, bridge, armor-plate, and structural steel business, * * * * until the name of Carnegie was written in bright letters across the sky of two hemispheres and people forgot that there were any other steel works in the world.

"Meanwhile in Pittsburgh the partners worked steadily on, building dollar by dollar the great golden pyramid by which their majority stockholder was to be immortalized."

The Gazette's Great Scoop

The Pittsburgh Gazette is the only newspaper in the United States, or elsewhere, that has been able to secure the rights to publish James Howard Bridge's History of the Carnegie Steel Company.

The book cannot be bought. Only 525 copies were printed and they were for private circulation only. Seventy-five copies were sold at $100 each and the remaining 450 copies at $25 each.

The only way in which the public can obtain access to Mr. Bridge's amazing revelations is through the columns of The Pittsburgh Gazette. And owing to the national interest and curiosity that has been excited by the press reviews of the book, there is certain to be an extraordinary demand for The Gazette from all parts of the country. To avoid the risk of disappointment

Order the Paper Now.

Early Financial Difficulties Had a Humorous Side

"Mr. Phipps had an old black mare, Gypsy, which he used to drive from one bank to another. The old horse had made the rounds so often that it would stop of its own accord whenever it came to a bank; it would make a diagonal line across Wood street from the Citizens National to the First National, and then on to the Third National, stopping before each bank and quietly waiting until Mr. Phipps had arranged for the day's negotiations. It was impossible to drive this old horse in a straight line on Wood street.

"The president of one of the old Pittsburgh banks recently said to the present writer: 'What we used to admire in young Phipps was the skillful way in which he could keep a check in the air for two or three days.'"

The Attempt to Eject H. C. Frick

Referring to the attempt to eject Mr. Frick from the Carnegie Company in 1900, one of the junior partners said, in explanation of the apparent willingness with which he and his colleagues joined Carnegie in the effort to depose Frick:

"We were simply a band of circus horses and we all jumped as the ringmaster cracked his whip."

An Unsolicited Testimonial

"With documentary proof before me I found that almost every man who had written a line about the events I was investigating had blundered: and of them all I found Andrew Carnegie's own narrative the least trustworthy."—James Howard Bridge.

LOCAL MILITIAMEN WILL NOT REAP ANY BENEFIT

Dick Law Went Into Effect After the Pennsylvania Encampments.

The recent decision of the comptroller of the treasury in regard to the payment by the government of state militiamen who attend state encampments, will not affect the militiamen of Pennsylvania, as the Dick law, part of which was interpreted by the comptroller, did not go into effect until August 15. The decision reads as follows:

Any portion of the organized militia that shall engage in actual field or camp service for instruction, and the organized militia of any state or territory that shall participate in any encampment, maneuvers and field instruction of any part of the regular army, at or near any post or camp on lake or sea coast defenses of the United States, are entitled to pay, subsistence and transportation allowances for the entire period from the time when such militia shall start from their home rendezvous to the time of their return to their home rendezvous.

As the Second brigade encampment was ended at Somerset the last part of last month the national guardsmen from around here could not benefit by the law, although they were inspected by Col. Howes of the regular army. The First brigade's encampment at Perkasie, near Philadelphia, and the Third brigade's gathering at Mt. Gretna, were both previous to the Somerset encampment.

FINED THE GUESTS OF NEGRO RESTAURANT

Marshall Ruff, John Bates and George Petrer, three negroes, were fined $100 each yesterday morning by Magistrate Joseph Vitchestain at Central station on a charge of keeping a disorderly house at No. 14 Scott street. The place is said to be a restaurant and club room.

When Lieutenant Kennelly called there early yesterday morning he found 33 negroes and three negresses in the place. Two of the women work in the restaurant and the other one was eating a meal and they were discharged. The others were fined $1 each as visitors.

HILL COURSE ON SHERIDAN AVENUE

Tracks Selected for the Big Automobile Climbing and Brake Contests.

UNWIN INSPECTS THE EAST END

Testing Machines Used to Find the Grades—New Feature for Pittsburgh. Time Limit for Endurance Race from New York May Be Extended.

The course to be used for the hill-climbing and brake contests, in connection with the automobile endurance run from New York to Pittsburgh next month were selected yesterday by Harry Unwin, secretary of the National Association of Automobile Manufacturers. Mr. Unwin, accompanied by Attorney James Francis Burke, vice president of the Pittsburgh Automobile club; W. Linford Smith, secretary of the same club, and W. H. Locke, who will manage the speed races to follow the endurance event, inspected every level and hilly street in the East End, recording the grades and measuring level stretches.

The hill-climbing contest will take place in Sheridan avenue, between Bond street and Wellesley avenue, and in the near vicinity, on the approach of the Stanton avenue entrance to Highland park, the brake contest will take place.

Sheridan avenue comes as near to the desire of Mr. Unwin for a hill course as he expected to find. The grade runs 9 per cent at the beginning ...

...club officials, Mr. Unwin decided that he would recommend that the race begin one day earlier—October 6—and the Sunday stop be made in Erie. This change will be made so that the big contest will not interfere in any way with the speed races at Brunots island, at present being arranged by the local club.

Bad Grades from Cleveland.

If the start in New York was made on October 7 and two days were allotted to make the trip from Cleveland to Pittsburgh, the contestants would not arrive here until Thursday evening, October 15. The hill-climbing and brake tests are intended as climaxes in the testing of the strength of the machines, and must follow the end of the endurance contest. Consequently, they would take place on the same day as the speed races on Brunots island. It is now deemed impracticable to make the run from Cleveland to Pittsburgh in one day. The roads are bad and the grades run to 20 per cent. If the roads are bad, the trip will be difficult, even in two days.

Secretary Unwin leaves for New York tomorrow morning. He has a detailed report of the condition of the roads from New York to Pittsburgh with directions to prevent the contestants from straying off the course. His report will be printed in book form as a guide for the contestants.

RUSSIAN SPIES ACTIVE AMONG SWEDISH FORTS

Suspicion That Czar Contemplates War to Gain Coveted Naval Bases.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 6.—Recent dispatches from Stockholm state that there is considerable anxiety there over the fact that Russian spies are becoming more and more daring and have been observed taking sketches and photographs of forts in all parts of the country. There is a general foreboding that Russia contemplates war against Sweden to gain possession of certain ports which she has long coveted for naval bases.

A few days ago the occupants of a yawl under the command of a Russian naval officer from the cruiser General Admiral, which is anchored in the roads outside Karlskrona, the main naval station of Sweden, were caught under highly suspicious circumstances photographing the new Howitzer battery at Steubrettel outside the harbor. The yawl which contained two Russian gentlemen in plain clothes was seized by a Swedish naval tug, which towed it back to the warship and asked for an explanation, which, however, was refused. A report was immediately sent to King Oscar.

The press strongly advocates sending a commission to Fredensborg castle during the czar's visit to King Christian to lay before the czar the complaint of the Swedish nation against the continued espionage and at the same time ask for more lenient treatment of Finland.

Allegheny Public Works Director Will Ask Councils for $84,000 Additional.

APPROPRIATION NEARLY GONE

City Controller Brown Blocks the Way, and Declares Cash Cannot Be Borrowed Without a Vote of the Citizens. Wyman Does Not Agree With Him.

Director E. J. McIlvain of the department of public works of Allegheny wants an appropriation of $84,000 for current expenses and improvements over and above the February appropriation. If the ordinances, which will go before the finance committee tonight, are favorably recommended, it will mean an increase in Allegheny's millage. Mayor Wyman and Director McIlvain propose getting the needed money by borrowing, and on this point the chief executive is at loggerheads with Controller James Brown. The legal department has ruled that the money can be borrowed without a direct vote of the people, while the controller says that he will abide by an act of assembly, which he interprets to say that the city cannot borrow money without a vote of the electors of cities.

The appropriation of $84,000 is to be divided as follows: Bureau of public lighting, $41,000; bureau of water, $43,000. The ordinances covering the appropriation were prepared under the supervision of Director McIlvain and were presented ...

EARL AND COUNTESS ENJOY DARKEY SONGS

Gen. Corbin's Guests Heard Plantation Melodies for the First Time.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The earl and countess of Shaftesbury, who are spending a few days in Washington as the guests of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Henry C. Corbin, were entertained at dinner again tonight at the Country club. Covers were laid for eight and the decorations were autumn flowers. The guests, besides the earl and countess, were Gen. and Mrs. Chaffee, Col. Edwards and Maj. McCauley.

The earl and countess were especially interested and entertained after the dinner of last night by the singing of a glee club of negroes. The English guests had not before seen the southern darkey nor heard the quaint and plaintive melodies of the plantation.

The dinner planned for tomorrow evening will be the largest function in the entertainment of the earl and countess. It will include Secretaries Hay and Hitchcock, Postmaster General Payne, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, Gen. Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gould and Sir Thomas Lipton.

LAST SCHENLEY PARK SERVICES OF YEAR

The last park service in Schenley park this year, although one will be held in West park, Allegheny, next Sunday evening, was held at 8 o'clock last night. This was followed by religious hymns, a solo by Benjamin Franklin Butts. Pastor S. Edward Young's sermon on "Getting Started Right," from the text, Luke 19:26, "Unto every one which hath shall be given." In West park, Allegheny, after sacred numbers by the Commonwealth Concert band and hymns by the entire audience, Pastor S. Edward Young at 6:15 spoke on "Helping Somebody Up."

LABOR DAY IN MANY PULPITS

Workingmen and Their Interests Were the Themes of Several Pastors.

THOSE WHO MAKE WEALTH

Great Progress in the Condition of the Laborer in Recent Years—Rev. S. Edward Young Declared Men Have a Right to Form Unions.

Labor day and the workingman were the foundations of many of the sermons preached in churches in this vicinity yesterday. The labor question was spoken of from many standpoints, but the spiritual side was the principal one.

John Upton Evers, pastor of Trinity M. E. church, Allegheny, took as his subject "The Importance of Labor to Society." "And in every work which he began * * he did it with his heart and prospered." Second Chron. 31:21. The Rev. Mr. Evers said in part:

Today we a crowning climax to the evolution of the world's progress, the laborer and capitalist stand together upon the same platform in recognizing the time-honored assertion "By industry we thrive." But the recognition of this alone is not sufficient to establish co-operation and harmony among the world's workers.

The five books of Moses furnish us with important data, showing the relation of carefully devised laws to a people having a government without a country. Their laws concerning labor were rigidly enforced. The adjustment was such that practical lessons are still to be devised which are applicable to the present ...

... was the subject of the sermon of Pastor S. Edward Young of the Second Presbyterian church yesterday morning, labor unions attending. The text was from Matthew, 19:27: "We have forsaken all, and followed Thee, what shall we have therefor?"

Ought not my work represent myself? Like harvests proving what seed and soil and shower and sunshine are, the things I bring to pass express what I am. If I scamp my work, I scamp myself. Let none bid me sell my toil unduly cheap. My first right is this, if all the world thinks the task I am at should be done, then all the world must respect me for doing it. To puddle iron by the furnace shall be as honorable as to sit in an easy office chair. Cooking over a hot stove shall be no less respectable than eating the dinner from off mahogany table.

Say not mankind demands this labor and with same breath assign me to a lower stratum of mankind because I perform it. My second right is that I shall receive appropriate compensation. My third right is to be allowed to rest. Where are the lapsed masses who never go to church Sunday mornings? Why, sir, about 80 church-fuls of them are task-bound this morning and cannot set foot within sanctuary doors on penalty of discharge from their positions.

My fourth right is to organize with such as I for our common defense. If the business of the man I work for has grown so fast that he no longer can talk matters over with me as in the olden times, then I must have a federation large enough and sane enough to make it worth his while to talk with us. Iniquity is in my heart if I threaten his property or person or the property or person of another would-be laborer.

Manchester Pastor Showed Why Things Are Judged Differently.

The Rev. A. R. Van Fossen, pastor of the Manchester Presbyterian church, Franklin and Market streets, Allegheny, preached yesterday morning on "The Enduring Word." The text is found in I. Peter, 1:24-25. The speaker said in part:

Some things lose their attraction because of frequent repetition. Others are impressed upon us by the emphasis of their recurrence. Some things are made to appear the creatures of minor importance because of their brevity of life. Again, value attaches to that which endures ...

DOLLAROLATERS GET A SCORING FROM A PASTOR

The Rev. J. A. Maxwell Coins a Word That Expresses What He Means.

The Rev. J. A. Maxwell, pastor of the First Baptist church of McKeesport, preached yesterday on "Dollarolatry," his sermon in part being as follows:

A great part of our people worship at the shrine of mammon. They are dollarolaters. It is the day to teach the right relation of a Christian to money. Christ does not teach that it is wrong to possess wealth. He gathered around Him as followers those who had property. He did not rebuke them. When the rich young ruler came to Christ and was told that he should sell all he had in order to follow Him, both the wonder of the disciples and the surprise of the young man showed that Christ had not been asking people to renounce riches. Nor did He teach that inequality of riches is wrong. He spoke a parable in which He recognized the inequality of capacity as grounds for the inequality of possessions. "To one he gave ten talents, to another five, and to another one, to each man according to his several ability."

When the love of money eclipses our love for men, it is idolatry. When a man forsakes principle for purse, he is a devotee of the dollar. When a man oppresses his fellow-man for gain, he worships at the shrine of mammon. Whenever our concern for the material eclipses or overbalances our concern for the spiritual, whenever our anxiety for the earthly is greater than our anxiety for the heavenly, then we are dollarolaters. If a person had in his keeping $500 of mine and I had as hard time getting a competency from it as God has in getting His money from His people, I would have him arrested for defrauding me.

SCHOOL DAYS AND THEIR EFFECT ON CHARACTER

Apropos Sermon Delivered by the Rev. C. F. Wishart Yesterday Morning.

"School Days and Character" was the subject of the morning sermon of the Rev. C. F. Wishart, pastor of the Eleventh United Presbyterian church of Allegheny ...

PROFESSIONAL WEEK ENDS WITH DULL STOCK MARKET

Prices Are Practically Unchanged After Five Days' Trading—Stagnation, However, Assisted Improvement in the Money Market.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Operations in the stock market for the last week were almost entirely professional. At the conclusion of the five days' trading prices were neither higher nor lower. The score or more of leading railroad and industrial shares which usually serve as indices of the trend of speculative sentiment were almost evenly divided as to gains and losses if one were to separate the fractional advances and declines into two columns.

Business for both accounts dwindled away to a very low point, the smallest for the same week in three years. At the outset efforts to create a bigger market failed completely.

On the strength of the secretary of the treasury's plan to come to the relief of the money market sentiment was more cheerful, and the professional element sought to take advantage of the changed outlook. The records show, however, that these efforts were carried on for about three hours, when they suddenly ceased. It was more apparent to the originators of the movement than to anyone else that when orders were given to sell there was no one to whom they could sell except themselves. The result was that the old prices were established.

From that incident until the end of the week the market backed and filled and drifted about like a becalmed ship, rudderless and leaderless. The stagnation became more pronounced toward the end of the week, when the market failed to reflect developments, favorable or unfavorable.

This pronounced dullness was in every way satisfactory. From the point of view of the betterment of the money market the stagnation assisted the improvement which is slowly becoming apparent. The utter abandonment of demands upon the credit reservoirs for speculative purposes had a salutory effect on money rates. Only once the improvement was slightly retarded, and that was on Tuesday following the burst of speculative activity, when there was a recoil in the time money market showing how sensitively it acted toward demands which it anticipated, but was not called upon to fulfill.

Considering the recent decisions and plans inaugurated by the secretary of the treasury, the failure of the Aldrich bill last autumn does not now seem important. In view of the secretary's action toward the St. Louis banks, announced on Saturday night, practically everything which the Aldrich bill demanded from congress has now been granted through the action of the head of the treasury department. The question will now be asked, how far do the discretionary powers of the secretary of the treasury go?

New Well Causes Discussion.

Many months had elapsed since Lower Southwest operators had a chance to discuss a strictly new discovery outside of the old defined producing limits of the Lower Southwest fields. It is not at all likely that the new discovery will go far toward supplying the declining production of the old fields. Those familiar with the territory are not inclined to attach any great importance to the strike. It has furnished some excitement and invited some new talent to invest when the older declined.

The well is on the E. W. Beckett farm, about four miles south of Milton in Mud river valley, Cabell county, W. Va. It was drilled by local talent and when drilling at a depth of about 1,400 feet last Saturday encountered a sand, thought to be the Keener, and when it had been drilled into it a foot the well began to show oil and filled up and flowed. Drilling was suspended, but the well continued to flow at intervals, and after it had put 60 barrels of oil in the 100-barrel tank, stopped flowing and no effort was made to have it start again until additional tankage had been provided. When drilled deeper its production may be increased, but it is just as likely not to improve, and if such proves the case it will not be better than a 15-barrel pumper.

In the vicinity and in all directions from the well, leasing has been very active. To the northeast and southwest for a distance of five miles in either direction from the Beckett farm nearly every farm has been leased and the prices paid little less than should have ruled if it had been tested territory and proved capable of producing oil in paying quantities. Additional tankage has been set up at the well. It is the purpose of the owners to drill it deeper this week, and its status as a producer will then have been fully determined. It may be a little premature to make the prediction, but it is not likely that Cabell county will be capable of sustaining the declining production of the eastern fields and after the excitement occasioned by the new find has blown over the question of where to find it will be just as perplexing as in the past months.

When the fields were reviewed a week ago a little hope still remained that the test on the Millie Morris farm to the northeast of the Pine Grove extension in Wetzel county might find a pay in the Gordon when drilled deeper. This was not the case, and the failure has caused consternation in that quarter. Located, as it is, but 600 feet from the Showalter gusher and coming in a total failure, it has prepared operators to expect almost anything from that quarter. With the older parts of the Gordon and stray sand districts declining as they approached more complete development, it was hoped that this extension and the one to the west in the vicinity of the producer on the Lida Lemaster's farm would help stay the decline, for a time, at least. To the north of the Showalter producer, the South Penn Company has reached the interesting point at its test on the E. M. Sole farm. Should this well come in like the test on the Morris farm, it will give another black eye to the extension of the producing area. The failure of the Morris farm test to make a producer put three drilling wells in that vicinity on the suspended list.

The prospects on the west side of the extension are little more promising than in the vicinity of the Showalter, as shown by the initial tests. Southwest of the Lida Lemaster's producer on the west side, the Southern Oil Company & Greenlee drilled in their test on the Howard Furbee heirs' farm during the early part of the week and got a producer estimated at from 35 to 75 barrels a day. Active operations in this locality are almost as active as in the northeast extension and the work under way will divide honors with developments to the northeast for several weeks. Both have called for the outlay of a large amount of capital, and some of those interested stand to win or lose a large amount of money. In both developments large bonus money was paid and development work has been conducted on a scale such as is witnessed only in gusher territory.

In the older developments, in the Folsom and Pine Grove districts, light producers ruled during the week. None came in as good as 100 barrels a day, and some were total failures. The few late wells above the average in size are declining rapidly. The South Penn Company's No. 4 on the George W. Talkington farm, which came in at the rate of 500 barrels a day less than three weeks ago, has dropped down to 120 barrels a day. The Showalter gusher, to the northeast of Pine Grove, has been shot three times since it was drilled in on June 20, but has declined to 180 barrels a day. In all parts of the lower southwest the wells once in the 100-barrel a day list are disappearing at a rapid rate. In the extension to the Old Whisky run pool in Ritchie county there are but four in the list and none credited with more than 100 barrels a day.

In the Big Injun sand district on Fallen Timber run, Wetzel county, three wells were drilled into the sand and all are showing for dusters. This district looked rather promising some months since, but the late wells have come in small or dry and the prospects are not nearly so bright.

South of Mannington, Marion county, Pope Bros. & Co. have drilled in a test well on the Hall farm that is showing for a good producer in the Gordon. This is slightly in advance of the old developments.

In the Yellow Creek district in Calhoun county, an occasional good producer is found in the Berea grit. The Yellow Creek Oil Company drilled in one during the week that will make a 75-barrel producer from that formation. There is a small amount of test work starting in this county.

Ritchie county continues to be the most favored in work of an experimental nature. Operations of this character are confined to no particular locality, but reach over almost the entire lower portion of the county. The salt sand developments are now the most active.

In the section contiguous to the Whisky Run district there is new work starting, looking for additional spurs to the oil field.

The shallow sand diggers on the Ohio side made no new discoveries of any special importance during the week. Great activity prevails in all of the older districts, and there is a generous effort making to discover new pools. They are hard to locate, and as a consequence the duster list is increasing almost every month.

Monroe, Belmont, Harrison and Jefferson counties are getting a severe puncturing, but all have failed to respond with any new pools. Quite recently Tuscarawas county has been receiving some attention east of Dennison. This territory has furnished some small producers during the last month, and there is a creditable amount of new work starting on the strength of the small wells. It looks as though there is a considerable scope of territory just across the Harrison county line in Tuscarawas county that is capable of furnishing 5 and 10-barrel wells, with a chance of striking something better.

Several producers were added to the new development near Highland, Washington county. The oil is found principally in the Big Injun formation, and so far very few dry holes have been encountered.

Southwest of the Lewisville district, Monroe county, some producers have been found recently and have called out some new work. The best of the new wells do not exceed 10 barrels a day, but they are a sufficient incentive for keeping up the search.

South of Burgettstown, Washington county, is the only development that is attracting any attention in the local fields. Three new wells were drilled in during the week, and all are very light. Beaver county is dropping behind with new work. Smiths Ferry has some new work starting, but it is nearly all within defined limits. In Greene county the gas companies are doing the most of the development work.

CAR STRUCK HOUSE.

Traction Conductor Fatally Hurt in Collision—Occupants of Buildings Escape.

UNIONTOWN, PA., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Car No. 136 of the Uniontown line jumped the track at 5 o'clock this morning at a sharp curve at Borden street and ran across the street at high speed into a row of three buildings, which it demolished. Harry S. Barber, 28 years old, conductor, of Beerstown had his skull fractured, three ribs broken and his right leg fractured in two places. He will die.

Conductor Barber was the only man hurt. The car was the first on its route Sunday morning and contained no passengers. It left the rails, although Motorman John Mitchell of Dunbar had already begun to apply the brakes. It hit Patrick Broda's barber shop. On either side are the residence of Mrs. Mary Croft and the shoe shop of Louis E. Irwin. Conductor Barber was hurled through a window of the shoe shop. Mrs. Croft was thrown from her bed. The loss is about $2,000.

INTEMPERATE MINERS TO BE DISCHARGED

POTTSVILLE, PA., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—In the interest of reducing accidents in the mines of the anthracite region to the minimum, to guarantee steadier work upon the part of the miners, and to create a better feeling between the mine workers and the coal operators, a movement has been started among the officials of District No. 9 to have discharged every miner who shows himself incompetent because of drinking excesses. The proposition has come from the mine workers themselves.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF MARKET PRICES

Hay Reacted to Old Quotations. Scarcity of Potatoes and Bananas—Fruit Plentiful.

A reaction in the price of hay set in about the middle of last week, and quotations rallied to the figures held before the drop the week before. Receipts the first of the week were good, but not sufficient to cause a glut in the market, and No. 1 hay sold well at prices quoted. Heavy receipts were bulletined Saturday, but very little if any change is expected in prices, as the quotations now ruling are thought to be fair considering the conditions prevailing. Very little straw is arriving, and prices stand at last week's figures. Rye advanced in price in sympathy with the rise in Chicago. One cent a bushel was also added to the price of yellow shelled corn. Bran and middlings are firm at prices quoted, with the supply short.

Flour is firm in market, and no reduction is looked for. The reports from the wheat-growing sections have strengthened local jobbers in the belief that the price is much more liable to advance than to fall back. This is certain to result in a stiff advance in the price of cereals, so that the local trade has little encouragement to offer to the housewives of this vicinity. In coffee there is a disposition to do more buying, which is attributed chiefly to the reports from the coffee sections, where a badly damaged crop and increasing damage to next year's trees has forced the conclusion that this year's shipments will be much lighter than expected.

Little change is noted in canned goods, although the market for canned corn is expecting a stiff rise soon. Packers in the east write that the cold, wet weather has seriously affected the yield, and that a very small crop is ripening properly. The "pack," from all accounts, will be no better than last year. Tomatoes are very free in market and were sold in the yards Saturday below quotations. Home-grown varieties are arriving in good condition, and the market is active.

Potatoes were abnormally high for this season all the week, due to the wet weather, which retarded digging. A break has been expected for several days, but the light receipts and the heavy demand have kept quotations firm. Dealers look for a drop of 20 or 25 cents a bushel by tomorrow. Home-grown produce has been arriving in good quantities, and the general tendency of the prices has been down. Cabbage was an exception, the best varieties being marked up a little.

Apples are plentiful in market, with no changes in quotations. Owing to heavy receipts of California seedless grapes and pears the price of both fell the middle of the week. Plums are very plenty and rule a little lower in price. Maryland cantaloupes are in market and Rockyfords are abundant. There was a scarcity of bananas all the week, only about one-half the usual amount arriving. Many stores and restaurants were unable to get their supply, and the stock was cleaned up as fast as it arrived. Raisins were advanced 1 cent a pound in response to the advice from the California Raisin Association, which practically controls the crop. No changes of note were made in the price of groceries, and meats remained at the quotations that prevailed one week ago.

Dissatisfaction With President's Action Growing in Amalgamated Association.

The dissatisfaction among the rank and file of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers against the action of their president, Theodore J. Shaffer, indicates that charges will be made against him and his resignation will be asked for in the near future. His continued absence from headquarters and his neglect to attend several important meetings held recently have stirred up the members of the association.

While several members have been discontented with their president for some time, it was on account of his absence from the sheet mill conference, held last week, that brought the matter to the front.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY COPPER

This reliable stock is now being taken by the best conservative interests in the country and the bull sentiment surrounding it undoubtedly is the forerunner of an unprecedented boom. It is from the most reliable and inner financial circles that I learn the Rockefeller interests and their many close followers are heavy purchasers. Such being the case copper [illegible]

BOUND TO ADVANCE

Within a Very Short Period.

The market is now in such condition that it seems almost impossible for the stock to assume a lower level. For this reason I feel safe in advising investors to place themselves on the proper side of the coming

BIG BULL MOVEMENT

To give investors a more adequate idea of the value of this stock it is only necessary to give a brief resume of the history of this giant corporation and the millions that are invested.

Capitalized at $155,000,000.

The Amalgamated Copper Company was incorporated in New Jersey April 27, 1899, for the purpose of purchasing and operating copper-producing properties. Thus far it has purchased controlling interests in a number of companies, prominent among which are the following:

Anaconda Copper Mining Co., Colorado Smelting & Mining Co., Parrot Silver & Copper Co. of New Mexico, Washoe Copper Co., Butte, Mont.; Diamond Coal & Coke Co., Diamondville, ——, Big Black Foot Milling Co., Bon—— Mont.; Hennessey Mercantile Co., Butte, Mont.

NO BONDED DEBT OR MORTGAGES.

The capital stock of the Amalgamated Co. is $155,000,000. Par value $100; all issued and full paid. The company formerly paid quarterly dividends of 1½ per cent. and ½ per cent. extra each three months, but owing to the fall in price of copper in 1901, the dividend was cut 1½ per cent. in October, 1901, and 1 per cent. in January, 1902, and ½ per cent. in May and ½ per cent. quarterly since. The company has no mortgage or bonded debt.

As stated above, the Amalgamated Copper Co. as a company that paid dividends equal to 8 per cent. per year. The dividends have been reduced until now they are paying but 2 per cent. per annum. The price of the stock has dropped from 130 per share to 33½, and is now selling at 48.

ITS GREAT EARNINGS

My object in giving you this little review of the Amalgamated Copper Co. is to show you what a good purchase the stock of this company is at present prices. Before these copper companies were amalgamated the companies that were taken into the combine called the Amalgamated Copper Co. earned dividends of over $12,000,000 as individual companies. Copper then was only selling from 12c to 13c per lb. The Amalgamated Company put the price of copper up to 17c and the stock went to 130. They then depressed the price of copper to 12c and the stock dropped to 33½. These companies today are earning as much money as they ever earned since they first mined copper. The Amalgamated Copper Co., since its existence, has never made a statement of its affairs to the public, and it is a mystery to the stockholders and to the public where these immense earnings go. It requires but $3,000,000 per annum to pay the dividend at the present rate, 2 per cent.; they are producing as much copper, working as many men, and copper is the same price now as it was when they were paying $12,000,000 per annum in dividends, so WHERE DOES THE REMAINING $10,000,000 GO? It is well known that they have spent $7,000,000 for improvements in the last year in Butte, Mont., building the largest smelting works ever built in the world.

DIVIDENDS WILL BE INCREASED

In drawing my conclusions I think the insiders and millionaires who organized the Amalgamated Copper Co. have purposely depressed the stock in order to accumulate it at these low prices, knowing that in years to come the dividends will be increased, and that it will pay more than it has ever paid before and that the stock will sell much higher. Instead of selling at its former price of 130 I fully believe in a year or two you will see it selling at 270. It is the greatest proposition before the public today for speculation in a low-priced stock. I feel confident that parties buying copper at 48 inside of six months will sell at 68, inside of a year 95, inside of two years 145. I unhesitatingly say I regard Amalgamated Copper the best investment of any industrial stock in the world.

I will carry this stock for you on a 5 per cent. margin, charging interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum on the balance.

[illegible]S BELIEVE THAT MAJOR VARDAMAN'S ELECTION AS GOVERNOR OF MISSISSIPPI MEANS SLAVERY FOR THEM

[De]mocratic Candidate Is Opposed to Negroes Getting Full Share of School Funds.

[T]HIS HAS AROUSED FURORE

Colored Population Confident That His Success Means That They Will Be Deprived of All Civil Rights and Every White Man Can Have Two Slaves.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Sept. 6.—The negroes in Mississippi are in a state of ferment. Capital is being made out of Major James K. Vardaman's anti-negro planks. The situation in Mississippi would be laugable if it was not so serious, and the political conditions are in such a state of uproar that the best minds of the big cotton state are now at work trying to quell the public demonstration. Many of the negroes firmly believe that the nomination of Major Vardaman for governor means their return to slavery and that the moment Vardaman takes the gubernatorial chair, January [illegible], every white man in the state will [illegible] his pick of the negroes, to be [his sl]aves as long as he lives.

This whole pandemonium has grown out of [the] unique campaign which Vardaman waged in the state, having fought [more] than five aspirants for the governorship and finally won in the first primary election ever held in the state.

The campaign was just opening when President Roosevelt made his stand in favor of the negroes of the south and just when the Indianola postoffice incident was red hot. Major Vardaman, a Democratic candidate and championing the white issue, jumped at this situation and practically made his campaign on the race question. He came into prominence all over the country. Vardaman took up the gauntlet which President Roosevelt threw down and hurled back a series of the hottest campaign speeches ever delivered in the state of Mississippi.

He made an issue of the school question, advocating that the school funds should be divided between whites and blacks, in proportion to the amount each race paid in, which would practically mean the shutting out of the negro from the public schools. A cry went over the country against Major Vardaman, but he waged his campaign along the argument that the whites of the state were contributing money to educate the blacks, while their own white children went begging in the streets for want of public instruction.

The school laws of that state are very peculiar. Under the constitutional provisions, the fund can never be less than $950,000, and it is always more than that amount. At the present time it is $1,250,000.

This sum was appropriated among the counties according to the scholastic population. Over in the black parishes in the deltas of the Mississippi and the Yazoo rivers, where there are many negro children, the money went lavishly under the state provisions. Up in the hill parishes where all the children were white, but so few they could hardly be found with a microscope, only a few dollars found their way. The result was that in the black counties, where hardly a white child attended school, they had school nine and ten months in the year, while up in the sparcely-settled white counties the school term was never over four months and sometimes not that.

Major Vardaman made capital out of this state of affairs with such success that he won the nomination, which in Mississippi, where the Democrats have no opposition at all, means election. Some of the white counties were paying into the school fund twice as much as they were getting back.

Based on this anti-negro school fund policy, the race in Mississippi has the impression that Vardaman will curtail all their civil rights and even put them back into human bondage. The situation is extremely interesting and the effect may have a bearing on national politics before it is done.

Equally important is the first test of the primary election law in Mississippi, which has aroused denunciation from almost every quarter. The country press of the state is sizzling and bristling with editorials, demanding a repeal of the law. They say it has demoralized politics of the state and has brought corruption and crimination.

Major James K. Vardaman has been holding a levee at his home in Greenwood, Miss., all the past week. Special trains have been run to his home from every quarter of the state and thousands have gone on to congratulate him.

MAJ. JAMES K. VARDAMAN,
Democratic Candidate for Governor of Mississippi, Running as an Anti-Negro Nominee.

HOMESTEAD WILL HAVE HOSPITAL OF ITS OWN

Appeal Will Be Made to Carnegie and Other Steel Corporation Magnates for Aid—Street Carnival to Be Held.

Homestead residents will make another effort to persuade Andrew Carnegie to assist financially in the erection of an emergency hospital for the benefit of the employes of the Carnegie Steel Company and the town of Homestead. Other steel magnates will be asked for contributions, including Charles M. Schwab, H. C. Frick and W. E. Corey.

It has been 10 years since Andrew Carnegie was asked and refused to build a hospital in Homestead instead of the library that stands on a commanding site in the busy industrial town.

Burgess W. S. Ross, who is at the head of the present movement to establish a hospital, is of the opinion that Mr. Carnegie may have changed his views in the last 10 years, and that he may be willing now to help in that direction.

In addition to subscriptions from Messrs. Carnegie, Schwab, Frick and Corey, funds will be raised by a carnival which will be opened in about two weeks. It is proposed to make the carnival of an elaborate character. The carnival will be spread over the streets of Homestead and also in the baseball park owned by the Carnegie Company, which is expected to permit the use of the grounds.

An emergency hospital, where workmen of the Homestead mills can be treated and where the people of Homestead can get treatment instead of going outside of the borough, is one of the greatest needs of that community. Workmen injured at the Homestead mills are brought to Pittsburgh, jolted on the railroad and also in the ambulance from the train when they arrive in this city. In some instances this has resulted fatally to patients. Burgess Ross believes that injured workmen and other patients of Homestead can be better treated in a modern equipped hospital at home than by being transported over the railroad. The burgess and his assistants in the present enterprise are, therefore, determined to have a hospital, whether Mr. Carnegie consents to build one or not for them, and they have decided to make a general appeal to the people for help.

EXPOSITION EXPECTS LARGE CROWDS TODAY

Strangers in the City Will Go to Hear Creatore and See Sights.

There have been many great days in the successful career of the Pittsburgh exposition, but unless signs count for naught today will record an attendance beyond anything shown in the society's annals.

With the great Labor day parade passed and with a quarter of a million people seeking diversion on this great holiday, many will find their way to the new exposition buildings. In the great buildings there is an abundance of room; they are cool and delightful; their interiors are a maze of lighted and artistic beauty, and whether one seeks amusement, entertainment or edification, there is a supply for every taste.

Creatore, the great musical director, is keyed to the highest anticipatory pitch and has prepared a program that will appeal to every nature. In full his program follows:

NEW ANIMALS FOR THE HIGHLAND PARK ZOO

Tapir, Elephant and Monkeys to Be Added—Large Crowds in Parks Yesterday.

The officials of the Highland park zoological gardens are contemplating making additions to the animals already on exhibition. A South American tapir, an elephant and several new monkeys will probably be added.

Superintendent George W. Burke and Ernest Tretow, head keeper of the zoo, in talking over the matter of housing the animals for the winter, which will be done soon, decided to dispose of 13 of the 21 elks, five of the 14 lions, which range from 6 months to 10 years old, and "Ripper Bill," the first camel born in the Pittsburgh zoological gardens. This will be done to cut down expenses and also to bring to the gardens exhibits which will be more attractive than so many elks and lions.

The matter has received the approval of Director E. M. Bigelow and negotiations have been opened with a New York animal dealer for their sale. The hard matter is to secure an elephant, which costs from $1,000 to $1,500. The prices of the animals to be disposed of will not reach that amount, and there is no appropriation to make up the deficiency.

Large crowds were at Schenley park, the Carnegie museum and art galleries yesterday. A large part of the crowd which attended the dedication of the new St. Paul's cathedral at Fifth avenue and Craig street attended Schenley park and the Carnegie Institute after the ceremonies.

At Highland park the antics of the California sea lions received much attention, as did the orange weavers and bishop weavers, beautiful birds from Africa. The weavers have just built their first nest since being brought to the zoo several years ago.

The large number of pigeons which fly about the park attract considerable attention, and many wonder why they do not increase in number. The reason is they furnish food for several animals which could not be kept alive unless some living birds are given to them quite often. The wildcats, eagles and foxes are each given a live pigeon every few days. Many people watched several mice in the den of snakes yesterday. Mice and sparrows are supplied to the snakes regularly.

POPE MAY NOT ASPIRE TO TEMPORAL POWER

The Pontiff's First Episcopal Letter Is Silent on the Question.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

VIENNA, Sept. 6.—The first episcopal letter of Pope Pius X. has created a very favorable impression here as well as in Italy, King Victor Emmanuel being exceedingly pleased with both its tone and form. In the letter, which was in reply to the resolution of the last Roman Catholic congress in Germany, which had expressed the hope that the temporal power of the papacy would be re-established, the pope speaks of religious questions, but does not say a word on the question of temporal power.

The omission is significant and is construed, even in vatican circles, as tantamount to a decision on the part of the pope to renounce all aspirations to temporal power. The first act of Pope Leo XIII. was to protest against the loss of this power.

The people of this city are also exceedingly pleased and flattered over the pope's selection of the Viennese artist, Lippay, to paint the first picture of him in his papal robes. His holiness has already given Lippay several sittings and the portrait, which is well under way, promises to be a masterpiece.

DEPENDS ON ROCKEFELLER.

Town Which Cannot Pay for Water Will Appeal to Oil Magnate.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Unless John D. Rockefeller comes to the rescue of North Tarrytown, that village will have to go without water or else place itself in the hands of the Consolidated Water Company of New York, and sign a contract for 10 years, which will burden the town with a heavy water tax.

The water contract expires this year and the company has presented a new contract by which it attempts to make the village pay seven and a half cents a 100 cubic feet for all its water. The village knows it can't sign it because its tax rate can't be increased. Still it must have water.

The trustees have called a special meeting for Tuesday night when an appeal will be made to John D. Rockefeller, who owns the hundreds of large springs about here and uses them to supply his pleasure lakes.

ARBITRATION CONFERENCE TO COME TO AMERICA

VIENNA, Sept. 6.—The conference of the Inter-Parliamentary union for international arbitration will open here tomorrow. A session of the council was held today to consider business. Congressman Richard Bartholdt, the American delegate, secured the next conference for St. Louis in 1904 upon the condition that the official invitation be extended by either the United States president or congress. Mr. Bartholdt assured the council that such an invitation was sure to be issued.

ORIGIN IS UNKNOWN OF $50,000 BYERS FIRE

Work Will Begin at Once on Rebuilding the Burnt Structures.

Investigation as yet has failed to discover the origin of the $50,000 fire at the A. M. Byers tube mill, South Seventh and Bingham streets, at 1:45 yesterday morning, a full account of which was in The Sunday Gazette. The flames destroyed the socket mill, machine shop and electric plant and partly damaged the butt-weld mill and blacksmith shop, causing a loss of $50,000, fully covered by insurance. Fifty men will be thrown out of work.

The flames were discovered at 1:45 o'clock by Policeman Patrick Adams, who turned in an alarm from box 341 at South Seventh and Bingham streets. When the district fire departments arrived the entire socket and machine shop was a mass of flame, and the fire had communicated to the butt-weld mill and the blacksmith shop and also threatened a row of houses in South Seventh street. This caused a second alarm to be turned in, which was immediately followed by a third, which called out several downtown companies.

When they arrived the socket mill was almost totally destroyed, and several streams were turned on the other shops, which saved them from total destruction. Several hundred men are employed at various parts of the mill and large crowds of these were at the scene of the fire. The flames illuminated the sky and could be seen distinctly from any parts of the city, causing hundreds of people to visit the place. By 3 o'clock the flames were completely under control, although several streams were kept on the ruins until daylight.

The origin of the fire is not known, as the mill was closed down on Saturday at 5 o'clock. The machine shop and socket mill contained several thousand dollars' worth of machinery and finished material. Belts were destroyed and shafting and pulleys warped and twisted. At the electric plant a valuable engine and switchboard were burned. This will greatly handicap the entire mill. Much trouble is expected when the burned buildings are torn down, as the rafters and timbers are broken and piled in dangerous heaps. Charles Gross, who is superintendent of the company, when seen at his home, 1810 Sydney street, stated that the company would immediately put men to removing the debris and rebuild on the site.

FORMAL OPENING OF STOCK YARDS

Twenty-Five Thousand Persons Expected to Attend Herrs Island Exercises.

MEAT MEN FROM MANY CITIES

Several Hundred Visitors Made a Sunday Inspection of the Buildings—A. J. Cassatt Expected to Be the Guest of Honor Today—Those Already Arrived.

The greatest gathering of live stock dealers that ever visited Pittsburgh will attend the formal opening today of the new Union stock yards at Herrs island. With good weather 25,000 people are expected on the grounds. Cattlemen from all parts of the country will be here, and representatives from all the large concerns in both eastern and western meat centers will be on hand.

The gates will be thrown open at 10 o'clock in the morning. The earlier hours will be spent in an inspection of the yards, after which refreshments will be served and the formal exercises will take place upon a stand erected in the open air. The speakers will be Frank B. McClain, Lancaster, Pa.; Sam. W. Allerton, Indianapolis, and James Francis Burke of this city. Simon O'Donnell, general manager of the company, will officiate as master of ceremonies.

The opening of the new Herrs island stock yards will signalize the closing of the East Liberty pens, and tomorrow the work of removing the last effects of the brokers will commence. This will necessitate a great deal of work, and the dealers will be busy throughout the week.

Visitors Inspect the Yards.

Several hundred visitors inspected the yards yesterday afternoon. They assembled at the Hotel Schenley and after luncheon went to Herrs island in a body, under the personal direction of General Manager O'Donnell. The great white pens were a revelation to every visitor and all were enthusiastic in their praise of the Pittsburgh enterprise.

"These yards are not the largest in the country," said M. P. Hulton of Philadelphia, "but Pittsburgh can undoubtedly claim to have the finest equipped yards to be found anywhere. All the best plans in the west have been adopted and with modern improvements the ideal location of the stock pens gives local dealers advantages which would please every handler of live stock.

IN THE TRACTION PARKS.

Lots of Music, Singing and Other Features Entertained Many Persons.

A concert band, three military bands, three quartets and a long list of special features furnished entertainment for large crowds at the traction parks yesterday. Kennywood had the Rocereto concert band and orchestra. In the steeplechase building Svengali, the yodler; Edward Fleishman, the basso, and Clyde Schafer, the tenor, added to their popularity. Baby Barrett, the local child artist, and the Lone Star quartet of vocalists and mandolin players were well received, while the Kates brothers, aerial acrobats, were generously applauded. Svengali and Mr. Fleishman sang several duos.

The Second Brigade band was at Calhoun park and played two fine programs. Messrs. Stingone and Kennedy played a good cornet duet. Miss Mildred Adams of the "White Slave" company sang several songs in her vivacious way, while "The White Slave" quartet, from the same company, got the approval of the auditors. In the evening Signor O. Ferrera of the band played an interesting euphonium solo.

Oakwood had the Fourteenth Regiment band, of which Messrs. Nuella, Fugasi, Ashman, Marshall and Greenwald played "Annie Laurie" as a brass quintet and were encored. The imperial quartet sang several selections well.

At Southern park the crowds were entertained by the Third Regiment band, Fred Nolan, the humorist, and Miss Mamie Goodrich, the comedienne. William Montgomery of the band played a fine cornet solo, while D. K. Borland executed a good cornet solo entitled "Addio a Napoli."

Immediately after last evening's concerts the park attaches began preparing for today's celebrations, which promise to be big.

NEW CHURCH DEDICATED.

Third Cumberland Presbyterian Congregation Raised $2,000 Yesterday.

The Third Cumberland Presbyterian church, Grotto street, near Lemington avenue, was dedicated yesterday afternoon. The services were in charge of the Rev. C. R. Zahniser, who has been pastor of the church since its organization.

The dedicatory service was held at 3 p. m., although the church was thrown open in the morning for Sunday school services. Prof. E. A. Turner of Waynesburg college read the dedicatory service and turned the deed to the church over to the trustees on behalf of the synod. Addresses of a congratulatory nature were made by the Rev. J. # STORY TOLD BY JAIL CALENDAR

Startling Proof of Increase of Crime Among Our Foreign-Born Population.

DIFFERENCE IN NATIONALITIES

Serious Offenses Committed by Members of the Undesirable Class of Immigrants—Seldom Naturalized Citizens. How Officials View the Situation.

Startling proof of the increase of crime among the foreign-born population of Pittsburgh and vicinity is shown in the personnel of the list composing the current jail calendar. The proportion of foreigners in the jail is much greater than the ratio to the native population, and in the present term of criminal court the number of foreigners on the list is especially striking.

The annual average shown by the jail records indicate that about half the persons committed for all classes of offenses are foreigners. Among those recorded as "Americans" are many English speaking aliens who refuse to divulge their nationality. In addition to this the proportion of Americans is made greater by entering all negroes under the class of native born. According to the proportion of population the number of foreigners in the criminal list should be less than one-fifth that of the Americans. The figures from the jail records and the awful stories of depravity behind the figures indicate that crime is increasing among foreigners of the lower class, which, in turn, is taken to mean that the importation of foreigners of the criminal mold is steadily increasing.

Six Foreign Murderers.

Of the 13 men who are to be tried for murder in this sitting of court six are foreigners. Among all the more heinous crimes the proportion of foreigners is always largely in excess of that of the native born. Naturalized Americans, generally speaking, are exempt from the criminal class, and the prisons are furnished with their worst inmates usually from the hordes that refuse citizenship.

The number of jail cases drawn last year from the Slavonic races exceeded that of all other nationalities, footing up 1,224. The list of crimes included nearly every offense on the calendar, but far especially high in that degree of crime classed as felony. Following these came the Irish, with 1,048 jail cases. This number, however, is small when it is considered that Pittsburgh has a large Irish population, very largely in excess of the Slavonic. The crimes charged against the sons of Erin were light, drunkenness and disorderly conduct and assault and battery leading in the character of offenses.

Among the Italians crime left a black record, 438 having been placed in jail. A large number were imprisoned for murder and felonious assault. The number of Germans was small in proportion to the population, 475 having been incarcerated, but of this number many were not held for court, and, like their Hibernian neighbors, were lodged in jail to recover from the effects of too much liquor.

Haymaker Is Optimistic.

District Attorney John C. Haymaker attributes the large court calendar for this month's term to the increase of population and the proportion of foreigners to the same relative cause. He refuses to take a pessimistic view and say that the city is growing morally worse. Crime of every kind is more general in summer, and this, he thinks, is one reason why so many criminals will be placed in the docks.

Warden Edward Lewis and his assistants, who are brought in daily contact with Allegheny county's criminals, take a more serious view of the situation. To judge the ratio of foreigners in the prison it is only necessary to go into the waiting room of the jail on the mornings of visiting days and it will be seen that the lobby and the entire lower floor is filled with foreigners, and an English word is rarely heard.

"By saying that a large number of our jail cases are foreigners," said Warden Lewis, "does not indicate that we do not get any of the desirable class of immigrants. We have frugal, law-abiding people here of every nationality, but at the same time we cannot ignore the fact that we have too many of the most undesirable class. The records of crime show that some of the most depraved cases come from this horde of foreigners. It is indeed a matter for serious consideration and is the best argument for those who favor placing a ban on this class of immigration."

First Fall Features in MILLINERY

Paris has made its proclamations. The millinery styles for the next six months are fixed. Importers of millinery materials, manufacturers of frames, ornaments, shapes and hat garniture of all kinds and the duplicators of the Paris patterns have all bowed to the edict from France, and the Fall season is now fairly begun. Our buyers, trimmers and milliners are back from the market with their notebooks filled with sketches and descriptions and their heads filled with memories of the best models. Sufficient quantities of the new shapes and trimming materials are at hand and today our workroom starts in with full ranks of expert workers to prepare for the Autumn Opening and win fresh laurels for the Millinery Department that enjoyed such a special run of popularity during the season just ended.

NEW TRIMMED HATS—While part of our force are making the masterpieces for the Autumn Opening other experts are ready right now to make you a hat to order, in strict conformity with the new styles. If you are ambitious to appear very early in the season in a new hat. We will show you pictures from which to make selections or give you a private view of the contents of the bandboxes to help you choose the style that will please you best.

READY-TO-WEAR HATS—For Exposition wear, for Autumn trips out of town and for many other purposes which the story hats of Summer fail to meet, we offer a line of simple and inexpensive Ready-to-put-on Hats in the more durable forms. These come in plain, brush, camel's hair and piece felts, and are trimmed with wings, birds, breasts, quills and pompons—some in large effects and a splendid variety of the popular "flat iron" turbans. Prices, $2.25, $2.49, $2.99, $2.98, $3 and $7.98.

LADIES' UNTRIMMED HATS—All the new shapes and styles in the most popular fall colors await the gifted women who are their own milliners at 50c, 98c, $1.50, $1.98 and upward to $3.98. Trimming materials at very reasonable prices—felts, velvets, ribbons, ornaments, wings, breasts, birds, fur, etc.

CHILDREN'S HATS—For young girls' dress purposes or school wear we have a line of headwear that will prove a delight to those who appreciate chic effects. Plain felts, scratch felts and fur beavers are the predominating materials—brown, blue, castor, cardinal and black the leading colors. The swellest are trimmed with generous bows of wide gros grain or liberty satin ribbons which fall in medium-length streamers over the back. Prices, $1.25, $1.98, $2.48, $3, $3.50 and $4.48.

MOURNING HATS—While part of our millinery forces were in New York selecting materials and bringing their ideas up-to-date the experts who remained at home made good use of their time by preparing a new line of mourning and all-black hats in conformity with the plates from Paris showing the correct conceptions for the coming season. Some of these are close-fitting toques of shirred Peau de Soie, some are handsome round turbans, and some are broad brim hats with crowns, all of which are variously trimmed with dull jet ornaments, aigrettes, wings, breasts and crepe fashioned into rosettes, knotted into lovely bows, etc. Prices, $5, $6, $7.50 and $10.
